

GERMANY DECLARES PRACTICAL STATE OF WAR AGAINST FRANCE, SAYS DISPATCH FROM BERLIN

Deadlock Seen in Arguments on British Debt

UNABLE TO AGREE, ADJOURN MEETING UNTIL THURSDAY

Indications Point to Differences Among Commissioners on Question of Interest Rate.

DISCUSSIONS ARE STILL CAREFULLY GUARDED

Both British and American Members of Commission Are Still Hopeful for Agreement Soon.

Washington, January 16.—The American and British debt commissions were unable today to bring into accord their views as to the terms of the settlement of Great Britain's war debt to the United States. Further negotiations were suspended until Thursday with the British meantime seeking additional instructions from their government.

The subject of the conversations today was carefully guarded but there were indications that the present difference had to do largely with the question of interest rate. It was reported that the British mission had suggested 3 per cent and that this had been approved yesterday by the British cabinet.

It was learned authoritatively that at previous sessions there had been discussion of the statement that three per cent was the average rate of government loans in normal times and that the figures examined by the commissions had appeared to support this contention. Since this figure is considerably below the rate of interest now paid by the American government on the money borrowed and advanced to Great Britain, however, some members at least, of the American commission were represented as feeling that they hardly would be justified in recommending such a figure to congress.

Hope for Agreement.

While the state of the negotiations after today's session was described officially as practically the same as that obtaining after the previous meeting on last Friday, both the American and British expressed hope of an agreement in principle before the end of the present conversations. Stanley Baldwin, British chancellor of the exchequer and head of the London mission, still is anxious to sail for home Saturday, but it was said that there was a possibility that the mission would remain over unless an accord was reached before that time.

The refunding negotiations were the subject of brief discussion today in congress. Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, said that considering Great Britain's ability to make loans to other nations, to support the "largest navy in the world," to invest "hundreds of millions" in oil developments and other circumstances, she was able to pay the United States.

Although opposing a lower interest rate than 4-4-4 per cent fixed by congress in the allied debt refunding law, the Tennessee senator told the senate that if Great Britain required a longer period for final settlement than 25 years set down in that statute, he was agreeable.

Representative Poin, democrat, North Carolina, commending the announced determination of the British government to pay its debt, declared in the house that the American commission should be vested with the largest powers of adjustment, reserving the one condition that there be no cancellation of any part of the debt.

"I believe we ought to give Great Britain the longest terms of payment—sixty years, if she wants that much—and the very lowest rate of interest," said Mr. Poin. "Then after the bonds have been made satisfactory to Great Britain, this government would have a chance to take care of adjusted compensation to former service men."

WANTS VOTE ON WAR Would Institute Referendum to Decide on Hostilities.

Washington, January 16.—A constitutional amendment requiring a referendum before a declaration of war was proposed by Representative Winifred Mason Huck, republican, of Illinois, today in her first address in the house.

Mrs. Huck's proposal would authorize the president to inform the world that the United States is ready to declare war on condition that other nations do likewise.

HUGHES DECLARES BOYDEN PROPOSAL 'PURELY PERSONAL'

Says Brief by Unofficial Observer Was Not Plan for Settlement of Reparations.

U. S. NOT AUTHORITY FOR MEMORANDUM

Boyden Nor Anyone Else Authorized to Present Plan on Behalf of America, Says Secretary.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, January 16.—The suggestion placed before the reparations commission by Roland W. Boyden, and which apparently has been regarded abroad as a proposal of the American government for settlement of the reparations problem, was said by Secretary Hughes tonight to be nothing more than "a purely personal" memorandum prepared by Mr. Boyden at the request of commission members and in no sense embodying a "plan" for the settlement of reparations.

In a formal statement making disclosures which appeared to clear away many mystifying features of recent Paris dispatches on the subject, Mr. Hughes reiterated that neither Mr. Boyden as unofficial American observer on the commission nor anyone else had been authorized to present any settlement plan on behalf of the United States government.

Was Not Official.

The memorandum prepared by Mr. Boyden, the secretary added, dealt only with general considerations of the reparations question, making no suggestion as to time or manner of the payment of Germany's reparations obligations, was prepared without consultation with the state department, and was of such a character that it appeared to require no action by the department.

Mr. Hughes made his explanation of the nature of the Boyden memorandum after receipt tonight from Paris of further official advice, understood to have resulted from an inquiry sent by the department yesterday after first reports of "an American plan" had been published in this country.

Text of Statement.

The full text of the secretary's statement follows:

"The attention of the department of state having been called to the dispatches from Paris with regard to an 'American reparations plan,' made the following statement:

"The department reiterates its statement that neither the secretary nor any one of the department has approved a plan for submission to the reparations commission or has authorized any such submission. The department has been at a loss to account for the reports from Paris, but from today's dispatches it would seem that reference is made to a memorandum which had been sent to the department about November 16 and had been received about December 1. This memorandum, however, was not, in any sense a plan for the settlement of reparations nor was it authorized by the department.

"While ordinarily the department would not think it necessary to refer to the memorandum, so much has appeared in the press which is likely to give rise to misapprehension that the following explanation of the matter is made:

Asks Suggestion.

"It appears that on November 13, Mr. Boyden had been requested by one or more members of the reparations commission to draft, as a purely personal suggestion, a proposed letter to be sent by the reparations commission to the German government on lines he had informally indicated. This Mr. Boyden did in the memorandum in question which he gave as a draft to one of the members of reparations commission. This memorandum, so far as the department has

Lineman Dies, His Fight Ended In Mother's Arms

George Corbin, Neck Broken, Resisted Death Until His Mother Came.

After clinging desperately to the only shred of life within him for more than twenty-four hours, while his mother waited with time to comfort him during his last moments, George Corbin, lineman, died Tuesday night a few minutes after the arrival of his mother, Mrs. R. L. Barton, from Palatka, Fla. His two brothers, Alvin and Will Corbin, and his sister, Miss Mabel Corbin, of Rome, were also at the bedside at the time of his death.

His neck had been broken and his spinal cord partially severed as a result of a fall from a telephone pole at the East Point sub-station of the Georgia Railway and Power company, Monday, and he was rushed to Grady hospital while still conscious.

An X-ray examination showed that the fifth and sixth cervical vertebra had been shattered in the fall, and when he was told that there was little chance for him to live, he said: "I will not die; I'll fight it" and kept repeating, "I shan't die! I shan't die!"

An effort was made to save him by an operation, which disclosed the fact that the shattered fragments of the crushed vertebra had cut into the spinal cord until it was half severed. There was no sensation in the lower limbs, and he was powerless to move either of them, yet he could move his arms and talk intelligently until Tuesday morning, when he lapsed into unconsciousness, and never spoke again.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Harry G. Poole, pending further arrangements.

Mr. Corbin was an employee of the Georgia Railway and Power company, and his home was in Rome, but since coming to Atlanta he has boarded at the home of Mr. Tatum, 170 Mill street. He was well liked among the hundreds of employees of the company.

The fatal accident occurred when he was working on a pole at the East Point station installing some improvements. A guy wire broke and fell across a high tension wire near him, causing a short circuit. In an effort to escape electrocution he jumped, but his safety belt caught on the pole and he fell head foremost to the ground.

Johnson Loudmilk, his partner, who was working on the roof of the station at the time, was badly burned when he grasped the wire in an effort to break the current, when he saw his friend's danger.

BUILDING OFFICIAL DEFENDS RENTALS

Shultz Says Buildings Are Public Utilities and Should Get Reasonable Return on Investment.

"There is no element of our business more important than that of rentals," Earle Shultz, of Chicago, president, told the National Association of Building Owners and Managers with the members of the Southern Conference of Building Owners and Managers, here, Mr. Shultz spoke Tuesday before the convention.

"Unlike other industries, the major part of our operating costs are beyond our control. The three principal expense items, fuel, wages and taxes, are in a large measure determined by outside agencies.

"The successful operation of our properties," Mr. Shultz said, "must depend primarily upon securing and maintaining fair and adequate rentals. The most important function of a local association, therefore, is to adopt and put into practice a renting policy that will assist its members in obtaining fair and reasonable rents, but which at the same time be in every respect just and equitable to the tenants and the public as a whole.

Buildings 'Public Utilities.'

"It is evident that office buildings partake of the nature of public utilities as being absolutely requisite to the welfare of the country. Because of their essential character, it is vital that they be operated on a basis permitting the investors, who provide these necessities, to earn a reasonable return on their capital. This condition as applied to electric companies, street railways, steam railroad and other strictly public utility enterprises, is being very generally recognized today by both governmental authorities and by the public."

Other important addresses of vital interest to owners and tenants included an illustrated speech by A. L.

HIGHER SALARIES TO BE CONSIDERED BY SCHOOL BOARD

High School Principals and Supervisors Will Be Heard Before the School Budget Is Completed.

MEIXALL DECLARES IN FAVOR OF RAISE

Total Amount Involved in 35 School Officials' Pleas for Better Pay Would Be $9,228.

Increasing salaries of high school principals and supervisors was considered by the finance committee of the board of education Tuesday when opportunity was extended to those affected by the proposed increase to be heard on the matter before the school finance budget is completed. The finance sheet will probably be completed Wednesday, it was stated by a member of the committee.

Approximately 35 principals and supervisors, connected with the high school system are asking for salary increases ranging from $700 to $900 per annum. This would increase the expenses of the schools approximately $9,228.14 for the high school principals and supervisors alone, according to A. C. Meixall, a member of the finance committee of the board of education.

"I heartily believe," asserted Mr. Meixall, "that the salaries of these high school officials should be increased as well as principals, supervisors and teachers in all of the other schools, and shall vote accordingly when it comes to a show-down. It seems to me if the city can appropriate $14,000 for conventions that it can certainly find in its treasury an amount sufficient to meet the increase in salaries of these underpaid employees."

The finance committee has been engaged in making up the apportionment sheet for schools during the last ten days. That its recommendations will include an approval of increase in salaries for principals and teachers, was the opinion expressed by members.

FAMISHED CANARY UPSETS BUSINESS SECTION OF TOWN

Long Beach, Calif., January 16.—The police department worked more than an hour to get a drink for a canary. Somebody, passing a show window in a store temporarily closed, saw the bird repeatedly thrust its bill into the empty water cup attached to its cage. A crowd gathered. Someone telephoned the police.

Detectives, responding, ascertained the store was under the protection of a private agency. Operatives of that concern were notified. Finally a man with a key to the store responded. He filled the canary's water cup.

Little Rock, Ark., January 16.—Governor McRae announced tonight that the order to send troops to Harrison had been suspended indefinitely by him following the receipt of telegrams from Boone county officials stating that the situation was quiet and that the troops would not be needed.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Harrison, Ark., January 16.—Harrison tonight took on an appearance of absolute tranquillity after two days of intense excitement in which one man was wounded, another lynched by being hanged to a railroad trestle and over a score of other employees of the Missouri and North Arkansas railway escorted out of town to the Missouri state line this afternoon, accompanied by a "committee of one thousand," which stated that it was bent on cleaning up the strikers and their supporters to prevent further interference with operation of the crippled railway system.

"The committee of one thousand" tonight broke up after holding special sessions behind closed doors for two days and one night, and its members are on the way to their respective homes, some of whom came from a distance of 150 miles to assist in the round-up. No further trouble is anticipated.

The Arkansas house of representatives and senate this afternoon adopted a resolution authorizing Governor T. C. McRae to call out the national guard and declare martial law at Harrison. The resolution stated the state legislature would make all the appropriations necessary. It is believed the

ORDINANCE BODY WILL HEAR CHIEFS ON CIVIL SERVICE

Special Meeting Called Friday to Consider Armistead's Proposal to Abolish Civil Service Regulations.

BEAVERS AND POOLE INVITED TO ATTEND

Police Committee Will Meet Thursday—Possibility of the Police Fight Coming to Head Then.

Both Police Chief James L. Beavers and Detective Chief A. Lamar Poole, against whom a strong fight has been waged by administration leaders, will be extended an opportunity Friday to voice their sentiments in regard to the proposed ordinance abolishing civil service in the police department, it was announced Tuesday by Chairman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the ordinance committee. No meeting of the police committee was held Tuesday, as had been expected. The committee will meet Thursday.

The ordinance was introduced in council Monday afternoon by Alderman Jesse W. Armistead, chairman of the police committee, and was referred to the ordinance committee, which will hold a special meeting Friday afternoon. At this meeting it is expected that Chief Beavers, Chief Poole, and other members of the police department will be heard before action is taken by the committee on the ordinance.

"Fair to Chiefs."

"I believe it only fair and proper," declared Alderman Hartsfield, "that Chief Beavers and Chief Poole be allowed to express their views with regard to the ordinance before it is considered by the committee. Consequently I have invited them to appear before the committee and their opinions will be thoroughly considered before the committee takes action on the ordinance."

Another committee meeting that is expected to result in discussion of police matters, especially with regard to the change in the discussion of police matters, especially with regard to the change in the head of the department, is scheduled for 8 o'clock Thursday night at the police racks, when the police committee will hold a special session.

Members of the police committee refused to comment on the situation with regard to the ouster movement which affects Chief Beavers and Chief Poole, stating that no definite plan of action has been decided upon as

Spinners Offer $1,000 Cash Prize In Weevil Fight

Contest for Control Method Announced by Manufacturers' Council.

First information to reach Georgia of an offer of a cash prize of $1,000 for the "most valuable scientific contribution looking to the control of the cotton boll weevil" was received here Tuesday when the January 15 issue of The New York Commercial told of the announcement to this effect made by the National Council of American Cotton Manufacturers.

The contest, which is said to be open to any method, new or old, looking to control of the cotton pest, will be decided at the close of the 1923 season.

Announcement of the offer of the manufacturers' council, coming at a time when every energy in the south is being directed toward the matter of curbing the weevil, is of additional interest, it is said, in that it demonstrates the co-operative spirit of northern manufacturers in the matter of solving Dixie's greatest economic problem.

Spinners in Charge.

The Commercial stated that a committee of manufacturers has been named to have supervision over the contest. It consists of Captain Ellison A. Smythe, chairman; J. R. Kinler, Bradford Knapp, John M.

Court Rules That Witnesses Do Not Have to Answer Questions of Incriminating Nature.

Bastrop, La., January 16.—Admission on the part of one witness that at one time he thought he recognized three members of the black hooded band held responsible for the kidnapping of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richard, lengthy examination of two other witnesses—Smith Stevenson and E. N. Gray—and protest made by a Bastrop attorney against the proceedings of certain questions to Gray were incidents of a lively day's proceedings in the open hearing inquiry here into masked band depredations in Morehouse.

W. H. Todd halted proceedings momentarily during the examination of Gray to call the attention of Judge Fred L. Odum, before whom the inquiry is being held, to a newspaper dispatch intimating that Gray might be named as a defendant with several other men in criminal proceedings as a result of the disappearance of Daniel and Richard.

Todd interposed when Gray was asked where he was on August 24—the day of the kidnapping of Daniel and Richard.

Judge Odum ruled that Gray would not be expected to answer any questions that might be of an incriminating nature.

Gray in the course of his testimony said he attended a baseball game in Bastrop on the morning of that day, later he had a conversation with Jap Jones, William Higginbotham and others relative to a threatening letter said to have been received by Higginbotham and at Higginbotham's.

METHODISTS URGE LAW ENFORCEMENT

Anarchy and Return of Saloon Predicted in Resolutions Unless Lawlessness Is Checked.

Pledging encouragement and support to judges and all officers of the law in enforcement of prohibition, and urging that all give themselves to enforcement of the laws without fear or favor, resolutions were adopted by the Atlanta Methodist stewards, following a forceful address by Judge Samuel H. Sibley on prohibition, at a meeting of the stewards held Tuesday night at Wesley Memorial church.

"Present day disrespect for law, unless curbed by our courts, will result in damage to our homes and all public life," the resolutions declared, "and our laws are ridiculed and flouted by persons of all stations, who are endeavoring to bring back the saloons under the guise of light wines and beer."

Judge Sibley appealed for active support of the citizens of Atlanta in enforcing the laws now in effect. His address was received with frequent applause.

The meeting was composed of the Methodist stewards of the two Atlanta districts, north and south, represented by

BERLIN TO EXPEL FRENCH CIVILIANS FROM GERMANY

Break of All Relations With Invading Nation Is Expected Without, However, Resort to Arms.

FRENCH THREATEN FURTHER PENALTIES

Must Resume Coal Deliveries, Say French; Otherwise More Penalties Will Be Imposed.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, January 16.—The Berlin government has decided to expel all French civilians from Germany and establish practically a state of war against France, aside from fighting, according to a Berlin dispatch to The Daily Express.

SAY ECONOMIC CONDITION WORSE.

London, January 16.—The Times' Dusseldorf correspondent says that from an economic point the situation in the Ruhr is distinctly worse. German determination is hardening and the irritation of the population is increasing. Officials state that food prices have risen 50 per cent since the occupation and the requisitioning of hay, straw and gasoline is causing great hardship.

The Times correspondent interviewed some of the industrial leaders who attended Tuesday's meeting with the French and they were emphatic in declaring that nothing would induce them to change their attitude or consider resumption of reparations deliveries while the Franco-Belgian troops were in the Ruhr.

Two trade union leaders whom the correspondent interviewed said they were in close communication with English trade union leaders and would refuse to work overtime for the French while there were so many unemployed in England. They expressed indignation at being summoned to Dusseldorf to hear "a trifling statement read by a French general" and declared they would not obey any further summons.

French Determined.

On the other hand, the French are equally determined to enforce their will. The correspondent quotes a French general as saying there is nothing they are not prepared to do to compel the industrialists to abandon their obstinate attitude.

"Do you mean that you would go to Berlin?" the correspondent asked. "Most certainly we will go to Berlin, if necessary," the official replied seriously.

The writer concludes: "France and Germany have met in a stern test of wills, and the temper of both sides is rising. Short of an open conflict, the situation could hardly be worse."

most in the minds of the Ruhr population because of the new ultimatum delivered to the mine directors at Dusseldorf today. General DeGoutte's latest order, which is declared to be final, provides for resumption of the reparations coal deliveries to France and Belgium tomorrow morning; otherwise Germany will be subjected to further penalties.

The German mine owners reiterate their intention to abide by the federal commissar's instruction to withhold the deliveries.

While it was revealed at the Dusseldorf conference that the occupation of Dortmund was the price paid for the commissar's action, French circles here declined to disclose the nature of the additional penalties to be exacted. Reports are widely current that Muenster will be the next large place to fall; yet these are skeptical received because that city is so far outside the so-called Ruhr area.

Strategic Point.

It is pointed out, however, that Muenster possesses great strategic importance as it is one of the central points of the railroad to Wessel, which runs parallel to the railroad through Hamm, Dortmund, Bochum, Essen and Duisburg. Thus its occupation would aid greatly in effecting control of the Ruhr traffic, as the occupying forces are reported to be planning.

Control stations already have been established on the lines about Essen, freight trains being required to stop while their papers are inspected. It is feared here that one of the steps in the program of occupation will be to place such a tight ring of patrols about the occupied territory that the rest of Germany will be deprived of Ruhr coal. It is stated in German quarters that no more freight cars are being permitted by the railroad administration of unoccupied Germany to enter the Ruhr, and hundreds of cars were hurried off during the first stages of the occupation.

Entente engineers today went to six mines in the neighborhood of Essen and endeavored to determine whether deliveries were being resumed. Their mission was unsuccessful and they are reported to have left word that if the information was not supplied voluntarily soldiers would seize the books.

One of the labor leaders gave it as his opinion that very probably the miners would continue at work. The miners, he said, would have to keep employed in order to support their families. He therefore believed a strike was not likely unless the entente tried to extend the working day of the miners.

Other German circles declare that the funds of the miners' unions are so low that a strike could not be supported for more than a fortnight.

The Bochum disorder of yesterday is the sole instance of serious disturbance since the French and Belgian troops came into the district.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, January 16.—Italy has offered to mediate between France and Germany on the reparations question, says a Central News dispatch from Rome, quoting an announcement by the Italian ministry of foreign affairs. Italy's proposals, the dispatch adds, "embrace economic control of the Ruhr together with a commercial alliance with Germany." Italy is represented as anxious that such an alliance in no wise assume an anti-British character.

ITALY'S PLAN REVEALED.

Washington, January 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—To the utmost limits consistent with the preservation of its relations with France and Great Britain, the Italian government had been exerting itself to restrain French officials from proceeding with extreme measures of coercion against Germany.

A clear exposition of Italy's position in connection with the problem of the Ruhr invasion has already been made known to Italy's allies.

A disclosure of the Italian position is likely soon to be made to official Washington, meanwhile some of its features have been learned through inquiry in informed quarters.

One of the most important disclosures is that the Italian government, while concurring in the decision of the reparations committee that Germany was in voluntary fault as reparations in kind never contemplated a military invasion of the Ruhr.

What the Italian government supposed was to be done was to leave collection of the overdue reparations to technical experts, and that it is still convinced that such a plan might have worked successfully without the adoption of severe military measures.

Say Force Costly.

The cost of collection of the penalties by force would probably absorb the entire product, it was held by Italian officials, in view of the enormous expense of a military occupation of the Ruhr. Meantime great unrest among the industrial classes in Italy, supplemented by real distress and unemployment caused by the cutting off of the fuel supply, has caused the Italian government no little concern.

There has been no question of Italy's adherence to the alliance, if for no other reason than that she must obtain German coal. On the other hand, she cannot afford to pay for coal imported from countries other than Germany, since the German coal was to come to her without cost as part of the reparations due her under the peace treaty.

In Italian official quarters there has been no thought of a breach with Great Britain. It is understood that the British government has been reassured on this point.

Meanwhile, it is believed in Rome that though disproving of the measures adopted by the French and Belgians in regard to the Ruhr, the Italian government can best serve the cause of peace by continuing formal relations with these countries so far as reparations are involved.

Negro Woman Says Skeleton Was Her Son's

Five Arrested Suspected of Murder in Revenge for Whisky Tip.

The mysterious skeleton of McDonough road was identified Tuesday as that of "Red" Malone, a crippled negro, who disappeared several months ago, and five negroes were jailed, suspected of murdering him in revenge for information he is said to have given the authorities concerning alleged bootlegging operations.

The skeleton was identified by "Mammy" Ella Parcell, 10 Hubbard street, Atlanta, as being that of her son. In the decaying rags that clothed the bones she recognized clothes she had taken the day of her son's disappearance. She identified the belt buckle as having been improvised from the harness of the family mule. The cotton sewed into one of the shoes she identified, having placed it there herself to make the shoe fit a crippled foot.

Arm Was Missing.

Her statement to the police revealed that Malone had lost an arm and part of a foot in a railroad accident near Flipper, Ga., several years ago. Further examination of the bones confirmed her statement.

"Mammy" Ella went to the home of J. E. Nelms, a county officer, early Tuesday morning. She had a clipping of the story of the finding of the skeleton near Conley. She told the officer she was sure it was her boy if one shoe, found on the scene, was stuffed with cotton. The DeKalb county officers were notified, and the trip to the spot where the body was found followed.

With the identification complete, the woman was quizzed by the authorities. She stated that she last saw Malone in company with five negroes and a white man. They were in a touring car, and were about to take a trip, she said, in the direction of Conley.

Fire Are Arrested.

The information she furnished led to the arrest of Charlie Mills, Cornelius Duncan, Seabey Snell, Layton Ross and Thomas Ross. Mills, Duncan and Snell were arrested by Fulton County officers. Nelms and Frank Thompson, the other two were taken into custody by the DeKalb county authorities. All reside in Pittsburg.

The prisoners deny knowledge of the manner in which Malone came to his death. Witnesses say they were the quintet in the car in which the crippled negro was last seen.

The trio arrested by the Fulton county officers were taken to Decatur late Tuesday night to await trial in the DeKalb county superior court.

BOYDEN'S PROPOSAL "PURELY PERSONAL"

been advised, contained no plan for the settlement of reparations, no suggestion as to amounts, time or manner of payments. It dealt with general considerations as to the necessity of establishing confidence and especially of the importance of the attitude of the German government in expressing Germany's national will for peace. This memorandum was prepared and submitted by Mr. Boyden as a personal matter and without consultation with the department.

When its text was subsequently received by the department it was regarded as a plan for the settlement of reparations or as requiring any action whatever on the part of the department. Rather it was deemed to be a personal memorandum, which Mr. Boyden had already submitted to one of the members of the commission of a general nature and which purely emphasized some of the fundamental considerations which were deemed to be pertinent to the situation in a large way.

"The department heard nothing further about the submission of this memorandum until January 15, when it received a cable message, sent the day before, that this suggestion of Mr. Boyden was to be placed on the commission's agenda and that the memorandum had been revised slightly in language but not in substance. That is all there is to the matter and there is no basis for treating the general suggestion of Mr. Boyden as a reparations plan."

LOW RATE IS OBTAINED ON SCHOOL WARRANTS

Lowry Offer Accepted—The Best Since Pre-War Times. Parks Delighted.

Bids on the discounting of Georgia school warrants for 1923 were opened at noon Tuesday in the office of State Superintendent of Schools Dr. M. M. Parks.

The successful bidder was the Lowry Bank and Trust Company of Georgia, which offered to discount the warrants, in amount not to exceed $1,000,000, at a rate of 4.57 per cent. This rate is nearly 2 per cent lower than that charged during 1922, when it was 6.55 per cent and, according to Dr. Parks, will result in a saving to the general school fund of the state of approximately $100,000. It is a lower rate than has been secured since before the world war.

and Dr. Parks expressed himself as delighted. The rate in 1921, he pointed out, was 7.63 per cent.

There were four bidders, those unsuccessful including the Atlanta National bank with 5 per cent; the Citizens and Southern with 5.49 per cent and the Citizens and Southern company, 5.80 per cent.

The award was made by Superintendent Parks, J. A. Northcutt, clerk, and Miss Alma Norris, secretary to the board of education, who constituted a special committee representing the state school board.

The Lowry bank was represented by W. C. Wardlaw, vice president.

WILL TEST VALIDITY OF CITY ZONING LAW

A special hearing in Recorder Johnson's police court will be held Thursday afternoon to test the validity of the new city zoning law when the case of Christine Parks, negro, of 15 Taylor street, will be brought up. C. J. Bowen, city building inspector, preferred charges against the woman, claiming that she is residing in a block specified as a white district by the zoning map.

SWITCHMAN HURT, CAUGHT BETWEEN CAR AND FENCE

W. M. Moss, of 585 Stewart avenue, a switchman employed in the Southern railway yards near the Southern shops, was painfully injured internally Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock when he was caught between the car he was riding and a fence on McDaniel street.

He was rushed to the Atlanta hospital by E. A. Bush, engineer for the Fulton Ice and Coal company and W. W. Scott, a conductor in the yards, in an automobile by Mr. Bush. An X-ray examination revealed no broken bones and it is thought that his injuries are not serious.

Home Is Robbed.

Thieves entered the home of R. L. Dean, 241 East Pine street, early Tuesday night and got away with clothing and other goods valued at $290, according to a report made to the police. Officers investigating the case stated that the burglars entered the house through a rear window, stealing a suit case to carry their loot.

POSTMASTER GENERAL WILL NOT COME HERE

Illness Will Keep Dr. Work From Attending Big Postal Conference.

Postmaster General Hubert Work will not be able to attend the postal conference convention to be held in Atlanta Saturday, according to a telegram from Dr. Work's secretary received by Postmaster E. K. Larke Tuesday.

Dr. Work had signified his intention of attending the convention, and elaborate plans had been made for his entertainment upon his visit to Atlanta, and Postmaster Larke and other postal officials of Atlanta expressed themselves as deeply disappointed over the unfortunate circumstances which will prevent his attending the meeting.

Other Officials Coming.

John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, and W. Irving Glover, third assistant postmaster general, will represent Dr. Work at the convention, and it was announced that the program for the meeting would be carried out practically the same as planned, with the first assistant and the third assistant delivering addresses instead of, as first planned, for the postmaster general and his assistant to be principal speakers at the business session which begins at the Baptist Tabernacle at 2 o'clock Saturday.

Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Glover will arrive in Atlanta Friday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock, according to the telegram from Washington. Over 1,400 postal officials and employees in the Atlanta division have already signified their intention of being at the convention, and the total attendance is expected to run well beyond the 2,000 mark.

Savannah Delegation.

W. R. Gignilliat, postmaster of Savannah, and A. L. Saunders, assistant postmaster, and 14 employees of the postal system located there will leave Friday night for Atlanta for the meeting, according to dispatches from Savannah.

Those who will accompany the postmaster and his assistant from Savannah are Terrance J. Brady, assistant superintendent of mails; J. T. Canavan, general delivery clerk; W. T. Malloy, time clerk; Mrs. Lelia I. Googe, stamp clerk; W. M. Clark, mechanic; John F. Canty, Jr., assistant mechanic; Mack H. Branham, vice president of the state association of carriers, and the following carriers: N. A. Branham, S. A. King, L. S. Priestner, H. G. Nixon, Jr., J. H. Tow, D. C. Parkhurst and Ezra Johnson.

Mr. Large stated Tuesday that he hoped the program as formerly outlined would be carried out without great change, although it was possible that some minor details might be added or taken out.

Postoffice Robbed.

The postoffice at Hopkin, S. C., was robbed Sunday night by thieves who broke open the safe, removed an iron box containing $20.23 in money, and escaped, according to a report to Joe P. Johnston, inspector in charge Atlanta division, Tuesday. The box which contained the money was found some 75 yards from the office, where a 9-pound hammer had also been abandoned, after apparently having been used in breaking open the box.

SOLO CONDEMNNS "BLOC SYSTEM"

Declares System Is Based on Groups Which May Be Classified Over Specific Interests.

New York, January 16.—The "bloc system" in congress was condemned as dangerous by Representative Fess, Republican, Ohio, in a speech tonight before the Quill club, an association of editors and editorial writers.

The system is "naturally selfish," said Mr. Fess, "based upon groups which may be classified over specific interests. We have the agricultural bloc, the labor bloc, the ex-service bloc, the anti-slavery bloc, the big business bloc, and the unclassified or radical bloc. Some of these groups are of little significance, because of lack of influence, which is not measured so much by the number of members in congress as by the number they represent."

Mr. Fess cited that the former service men in congress were not more than twenty, but that there were four million former service men who, if united, could dictate results. "Then," he said, "there are a like number of labor representatives who claim to speak for labor, and in the degree they can convince their colleagues that they speak for labor, they will likely influence their vote."

Speaking of the "farm bloc," Mr.

Fess said it numbered close to 100 members whose number and influence "became almost decisive in legislation." The same statement, he added, could be properly made on the anti-slavery group.

"Each group," he declared, "maintains headquarters domiciled in the capital. Each supports its legislative agents, in former days dignified as 'lobbyists.' Each conducts well-organized and systematized propaganda not infrequently well supplied with necessary funds, busily creating atmosphere. When a bill is proposed, hearings are requested and the facts, as assembled usually are supplied through these channels, are made the basis of the decision."

"This modern tendency has at least two sources of danger. It tends itself to allowing a few leaders to report their view as that of the membership. The leaders too frequently are circumscribed wholly from narrow and selfish interest. Secondly, it develops a habit of delegating to the leaders the responsibility of the citizen who, instead of speaking, allows the selfish group interest to speak."

Mr. Fess permitted the most dangerous rolling where leaders of various important blocs may get their heads together and dictate an entire program on a reciprocal plan."

STEFANSSON SPEAKS
HERE AGAIN TONIGHT

Noted Explorer and Lecturer
Tuesday Told Crowded
House of Arctic.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted Arctic explorer, lecturer and scientist, who was scheduled to leave Atlanta Tuesday at the conclusion of his address at the Woman's club, has accepted an invitation to remain in the city and speak again at the Woman's club on conditions in the Arctic regions.

All American Legion members and ex-service men are invited by the Atlanta Woman's club to attend the lecture. The Woman's club is in charge of all plans, and it is due to their efforts that Mr. Stefansson was brought to Atlanta.

Mr. Stefansson talked at a packed house Tuesday night, many being turned away from the doors. Officials of the club declared it to have been one of their most successful nights, and invited Mr. Stefansson to remain so that those who failed to hear the lecture Tuesday night would be given the opportunity again Wednesday night.

He is widely known throughout the country and has done much to bring civilized nations in closer contact with the polar regions.

Mr. Stefansson has lived with the inhabitants of the Arctic and can converse with them in their native tongue. He has made an extensive study of the resources of this vast territory and declares that if properly cultivated, the entire world could be supplied with food from those regions alone. Mineral deposits of great value are awaiting development, he said.

His talks are illustrated with lantern slides.

Priced for Wednesday night are: adults, $1; students, 50 cents. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock.

BULLOCK PRESIDENT

Plans Made to Push Sunday

J. H. Bullock was re-elected president of the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers' association at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Chamber of Commerce cafe. Other officers elected were George A. McGaughey, first vice president; Morris Weinberg, second vice president; Frank Maloney, third vice president; and R. V. Berger, secretary. B. C. Kistner was elected treasurer to succeed W. T. Aiken.

Mr. Bullock, secretary, reported that the association had experienced a very successful year and a vast number of improvements had been accomplished. Plans were made to follow up the Sunday closing movement begun by the organization a year ago, and it was predicted by speakers that since the city administration has changed hands, more can be accomplished in the enforcement of certain laws for the good of the association.

F. E. Kamper was the principal speaker. He told of the plans for the pure food show which is to be held at the Auditorium within a few weeks. The show, he said, will be one of the biggest of its kind ever held in Atlanta.

BRITISH TO DELAY PEACE WITH TURKS

Declare Too Much Time Is Taken Up With Discussions at Lausanne Conference.

Lausanne, January 16.—(By The Associated Press.)—In the face of French and Italian objection, Great Britain apparently has renounced her idea of presenting the Turks with a draft of the Near Eastern peace treaty this week. Great Britain believes that so much time has been spent in discussion that little more can be gained by the French and Italians hesitating to risk a break with Turkey before all avenues of compromise have been closed.

Four articles of agreement concerning the exchange of the Turkish population in Greece and the Grecian population in Turkey, which affect a million people, were accepted today; but the Turks raised objection on some important points. They insisted that all Greeks in Turkey, except those in Constantinople, whether followers of the Orthodox church or Roman Catholics, must go, also those who have acquired the nationality of other countries including Turkey, while residents of Turkey.

Difficulty arose today over the boundary of Western Thrace, which belongs to Greece and where the Turkish population is allowed to remain to offset the Turkish decision that the Greeks must leave in Constantinople. The question was reserved. Under the articles agreed on the populations to be exchanged lose their nationality as soon as repatriated, so that while at sea and until they gain new nationality they will be people truly without a country.

Criminals must serve out their sentence in the country to which they are repatriated or stand new trials.

WRIGHT URGES ACTION ON THE OFFER OF FORD

Declares Auto Magnate Can Manufacture Arsenate to Fight Boll Weevil.

Washington, January 16.—Expressing the belief that Henry Ford would manufacture at Muscle Shoals the calcium arsenate necessary to fight the boll weevil, Representative Wright, Democrat, Georgia, today urged the house to expedite the Ford offer which has been pending for 18 months.

Mr. Wright said he had taken up with Ford representatives this morning, and that both nitrates and calcium arsenate made at Muscle Shoals and that the Ford people were engaged in a study of the possibility of the plan.

"Instead of spending millions for this chemical," said Mr. Wright, "congress should take steps to have it produced. We are sending millions every year to Chile to get nitrates, while a plant capable of making it cheaply at Muscle Shoals is idle. A bill dealing with it has been reported to the house by a republican committee and yet not a move has been made by congress toward its passage."

The big banks and trust companies, the automobile manufacturers, of Michigan also urged acceptance of the Ford offer. Producers, he said, had been circulating to convince the farmer that Ford would not make fertilizer if he got the plant. "The farmer is not going to be fooled," said Mr. Wright. "His representative saw to it that the bill guarantees that fertilizer will be made and it will be made and sold cheaply."

Lion Sprattlin presided over the meeting.

Stewart Forces Lose in Savannah Election Hearing

Alapaha Circuit Judge Declines to "Infringe Upon Chatham Judge."

Savannah, Ga., January 16.—(Special.)—After hours of argument at Homerville, Clinch county, today before Judge R. G. Dickerson, of the Alapaha circuit, the court declined to sign an injunction restraining Judge Paul Seabrook from assuming the office of mayor of Savannah January 22 and refused to issue an order (mandamus) directed against the judges of the recent majority election and managers of that election to show cause why Murray M. Stewart instead of Paul E. Seabrook, should be mayor of this city.

Judge Lovett and Judge Adams, for the Seabrook side, appeared before Judge Dickerson in protest to the application for injunction and mandamus signed by A. A. Lawrence and Shelby Myrick, representing the Stewart side.

Judge Dickerson declared that since Judge Meldrum had indicated that he reserved his acquiescence in the finding of the election judges, Judge McAlpin and Judge Freeman Davis, having declared Seabrook elected mayor, because of the possibility of future legal contingencies, he would "not infringe upon the jurisdiction of the Chatham judge," and stated further that "since the people, by a clear majority, had spoken in the mayor's race, he could find no warrant in law to override the expression of a majority to elect whomsoever they pleased as chief executive of the city of Savannah."

The news was received in Savannah with great interest. It is generally believed here that this effort closes the most sensational and bitterly fought election contests in the history of the citizens of the state of Georgia.

Amendment Would Boost Appropriation Of Harbor Measure

Washington, January 16.—The fight of the rivers and harbors bloc to increase his waterways appropriation in the army bill broke in the house late today, when Chairman Dempsey, of the rivers and harbors committee, announced he would offer an amendment increasing the appropriation in the army bill from $37,000,000 to $36,500,000. He said, he had been recommended by the army engineers. Basing his plea on the needs of transportation, Mr. Dempsey urged the necessity of immediate improvement of the inland waterways and the coast harbors in order to make them available for transportation to relieve the congestion of freight movement and to take care of what he described as a "national crisis" fraught with grave danger to the agricultural and industrial interests of the country.

CAPPER FARM BILL GETS NEW NAME

Rural Credits Measure to Be Known as "Federal Live Stock and Agricultural Loan Act."

Washington, January 16.—Consideration of the Capper farm credits bill was nearly completed today by the senate but final action went over to tomorrow, when the other credit measure, the Lenroot-Anderson bill, scheduled to be taken up immediately after its disposal.

Little criticism of the principles of the Capper bill was voiced in today's discussion, although its efficiency was scouted by some republicans as well as democrats. Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina said he hoped it would not prevent enactment of "real" farm credits legislation, declaring the co-operative credit associations proposed would not be of much aid to agriculturists except livestock growers.

Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, declared as "splendid" measure for relief of the hill country, extending Federal reserve system loans on farmers notes to nine months and authorizing continuation of the war finance corporation's loan aid for another year.

An amendment by Senator Norbeck, Republican, North Dakota, changing the title of the bill to the "Federal Live Stock and Agricultural Loan Act" was adopted. The new title is based on the co-operative credit corporation principle of the bill.

WHEN RUN DOWN
BY AUGUSTA AUTO

Augusta, Ga., January 16.—(Special.)—R. L. Belding, of Augusta, while on his way to Columbia, S. C., today, ran over and killed Jasper Carter, the 8-year-old son of G. Z. Carter, at Gloverville, S. C., a few miles from Augusta, according to word reaching here tonight.

Belding was proceeding at an ordinary speed, he says, when in passing a motor truck, the child ran from behind the truck and immediately in front of the Belding car.

Belding picked up the boy and tried to get him to a doctor's office in the city, but the child died before Aiken was reached.

Belding is an employee of The Chronicle mechanical department. He was held in custody at Aiken until the inquest is held Wednesday at 9 a. m.

SPINNERS OFFER
$1,000 CASH PRIZE

Parker and David R. Coker. These are understood to be members of the National Council of American Cotton Manufacturers, which, it was learned Tuesday, is a special committee of the American Cotton Manufacturers, largely a southern association, with a membership of northern and eastern textile leaders.

The following considerations in selecting the winning plan were published as having been adopted by the committee:

1. The extent of the cotton belt in which the method is applicable.
2. Cost of the method and simplicity of equipment required.
3. Does the method lend itself to use by the class of labor available in the cotton belt?
4. Bearing of climatic conditions in different parts of the belt on effectiveness of the control measures.
5. Practicability of the method under adverse climatic conditions following its application.
6. Does the method tend to increase yield aside from limiting weevil injury?
7. What relation does the method have to other insects, especially those affecting cotton?
8. Does the method look to extermination of the weevil or to a reduction of its injury?

The extent to which the success of the method has been demonstrated, both as to length of time in any one place or to a number of places.

For the benefit of Georgians who may be interested in this offer, The Constitution Tuesday secured the information that the address of Captain Ellison A. Smythe, chairman of the contest committee, is Pelver, S. C.

EXPLOSION WRECKS BUSINESS SECTION OF LOUISIANA TOWN

Crowley, La., January 16.—Practically the entire business section of the village of Scott, La., 20 miles east of here, was destroyed by an explosion of dynamite last night, it was learned here today. Three persons were seriously injured and 20 others sustained broken limbs, cuts and bruises. Property loss was estimated at $50,000.

Scott has 300 inhabitants and its business section was within one hundred yards of a garage in which an explosion of 700 pounds of dynamite occurred. Six buildings, five occupied as commercial houses and another as a residence, were practically destroyed. Other buildings in the vicinity were rocked and window panes smashed. The blast was heard in a radius of 20 miles.

The accident occurred when Dudley Broussard, 18, entered the garage to fill the gasoline tank. He had with him a lantern, it was said, and the gasoline explosion set off the dynamite stored there to be used in blasting a rice irrigation canal.

Broussard was badly burned. A residence next door caught on fire and the Lafayette and Rayne fire departments were rushed there.

J. B. Dugas, mayor of Scott, was injured internally while fighting the fire. C. C. Gregoire, a local physician, was seriously injured. The three were taken to the hospital at Lafayette.

SCORE OF STRIKERS LED FROM STATE

troops, now en route on a special train, will reach Harrison early Wednesday morning. The company numbers 50 men.

All strikers ejected.

Last night it was said that virtually every striker in Harrison—about 200—have been ejected from the state or placed in jail by the committee.

The body of E. C. Gregor, striking railway shop worker, found early this morning hanging from a railway trestle, was tonight taken by his wife and relatives to his former home for burial. Gregor, it is said, was hanged after he resisted attempts of the committee of one thousand men, who were seeking to identify persons who are said to have carried on a campaign of sabotage against the railway company. Gregor's home was visited by a committee demanding his surrender Monday night. Gregor is alleged to have replied with a revolver shot and escaped from the house in a hail of bullets. Emery dust and high explosives were found in Gregor's home, members of the committee charge.

Hotel Man Whipped. Following the lynching of Gregory, George W. O'Neal, hotel proprietor and local capitalist, who is said to have furnished bail for many strikers arrested and charged with sabotage, was taken from his home and severely whipped. Today he was in the hands of a special committee which he promised he would lead to the hiding place of E. D. Stephens, former engineer, who, it is said, was wanted by the committee.

Up to a late hour tonight Stephens had not been produced, but O'Neal would not further bargain.

Night Marshal Rankin, of Harrison, who was accused of being a strike sympathizer, was seized, tied, flogged and ordered to leave town. He is said to have left late today "for parts unknown."

A. J. Russell, United States deputy marshal, of Fort Smith, spent today in Harrison investigating the situation. He came here on the request of Attorney-General Daugherty. Russell said tonight he would make his report direct to Mr. Daugherty early tomorrow and intimated he would recommend that the railway be placed under federal guard. It is understood that Vice President and General Manager J. C. Murray, of the Missouri Pacific, North Arkansas, left Arkansas late today for Fort Smith for the purpose of requesting Judge Youmans, of the western Arkansas federal court, to issue an injunction to restrain persons from further interfering with the operation of the railroad.

Further trouble here is not likely, according to a statement issued tonight by the "citizens' court" composed of 42 men, delegated by a committee known as the "committee of 1,000" to sit as a "court" and gather evidence and confessions from men believed to be guilty or have knowledge of alleged depredations along the Missouri and North Arkansas railways.

In a statement given the Fort Smith Southern American tonight, a spokesman for the "citizens' court" said that the court had secured sufficient evidence to convict scores for wholesale sabotage and also intimated that several witnesses had "turned state's evidence" which implicates national union officials. These witnesses are being held in jail here and it is understood that federal warrants will be asked for certain national union officials on the strength of testimony furnished by witnesses who are members of various national organizations.

The spokesman for the "citizens' court" said a request for a special federal grand jury had been forwarded to Judge Youmans at Fort Smith.

While the self-styled "citizens' court" was in session yesterday and today quizzing strikers and alleged sympathizers, armed squads of men were bringing in the men summoned by the court from miles up and down the railway. The men brought before the body, it is said, were thoroughly owned and frightened and made a clean breast of the entire situation inasmuch as they knew the facts surrounding the burning of bridges and other acts of alleged sabotage. The court tonight took a representative of the Southwest American that it regretted Gregor was killed and that the court and committee as a whole would have prevented it, if it had been aware that such action was contemplated.

Visiting or out-of-town citizens formed into a home guard of about 300 men and tonight were practicing military formations and drilling around the town square.

SHIP LEAVES GREECE WITH SLATE FOR FUEL

Hardships of Vessel's Crew
Relieved After 33-Day Voyage to America.

New York, January 16.—A haggard, hungry crowd of 332 immigrants from fourteen European nations lined the rail of the Greek steamer, Acropolis, which arrived today after a 33-day voyage from Patras, with a tale of a harrowing series of misfortunes. All passengers, except nineteen Americans, were held on board pending removal tomorrow to Ellis Island.

The climax of the vessel's misadventure came today when United States marshals posted two libels aggregating $4,298 on her pilot house. Woe! tidings came not only to the ship's officers for the crew found that wages were not forthcoming, and launets in many tongues arose when word of exhausted immigration quotas was carried to travel-weary nationals of Greece, Russia, Rumania, Armenia, Turkey, France, Egypt, Persia, England, Italy, Serbia, Lithuania, Ukraine and Palestine.

Ship's officers said their woe-begone odyssey began when labor troubles held up the ship's departure from Patras for 34 days. An appeal was made to the American consul to effect removal of the passengers when it was seen that the Acropolis could not get to America before exhaustion of the various immigration quotas.

The American authorities enabled 200 immigrants who were provided with funds to leave the ship, but the Greek authorities, according to the ship's officers, refused to help the penniless immigrants left on the ship, and with threats forced the vessel to leave for America. Captain Peter Chelenty was told that the Greek government refused to accept responsibility for the immigrants.

No sooner had the vessel sailed than it was discovered that the coal pur-

ROCK HILL COLLEGE BURNS; LOSS $300,000

Baltimore, January 16.—The buildings of Rock Hill college, near here, were destroyed by fire tonight with a loss estimated at $300,000. The buildings contained a large dormitory, housing 150 students, administration offices, chapel, gymnasium. There were no injuries. Authorities are investigating the cause of the blaze.

The fire was believed to have started on the third floor of the administration building, a five-story structure, while the majority of the students were attending a basketball game in an adjoining building. So slow was the progress of the fire that all of the personal belongings of the class men and faculty were saved together with most of the labor equipment. The library, however, containing 30,000 volumes was a loss.

MINISTER WANTS LICENSE TO TELL MARITAL HISTORY

"There has been much comment throughout church circles about the resolution passed by the evangelical ministers' association, in which they agreed not to marry divorced persons except those divorced on New Testament grounds," Dr. Young stated.

WITHDRAW OPPOSITION TO KIMBROUGH CHANGE

Ranking National Guard Officers Give Up Fight to Retain Instructor.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh, N.C.

Washington, January 16.—(By Constitution Bureau.)—After conferring with Adjutant-General Davis of the war department, the three ranking Georgia national guard officers here to protest against the relief as inspector-instructor of Lieutenant-Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, have decided to withdraw their opposition to Kimbrough's assignment to the twenty-second regular infantry regiment at Fort McPherson, Ga., is was learned today.

The three officers, Adjutant-General L. C. Pope, Brigadier-General H. D. Russell and Colonel R. J. Travis, of Savannah, conferred with Colonel Kimbrough by long distance telephone, it is learned, before finally deciding.

General Davis, speaking for the war department, said that the department thought it to the best interest personally of Colonel Kimbrough to make the change at this time, although they were disposed to attempt to meet every wish of the Georgia national guard, the people and Senator Harris, who accompanied the delegation. It developed that Colonel Kimbrough would conclude his four years' detail with the Georgia national guard next September, and his no exceptions are being made he would have been relieved at that time. By receiving command of the 22nd infantry, in his home state, the department felt it would afford Colonel Kimbrough an opportunity to continue assistance to the Georgia guard and advise with the officers and men.

Prosperity Fails To Dim Memory Of Georgia Home

Walter Hiers, Movie Star, and "Peaches," His Bride, Visit Atlanta.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Walter Hiers is one star of the moving picture firmament who hasn't allowed his prosperity to wipe out the memories of the old home. Perhaps this is largely due to the fact that he is a native of Georgia, and who it is asked, could forget a home in Georgia?

Anyway, Walter was married last Friday night. He married at the home of his bride, who was Miss Annie McWilliams, daughter of one of the officials of the Nettleton shoe company. But the point of the story is that for a wedding trip he chose to bring his lovely bride homecoming down in Georgia. Last night they passed through Atlanta en route for Walter's boyhood scenes in south Georgia, and after a few days' visit there, they will come back to spend a few days in Atlanta, before beginning the long trek back to Los Angeles, Hollywood and the locale of his fame.

Mr. Hiers, as all picturegoers know, is one of the cleverest and most likeable comedians of the screen. He is, without dispute, physically in the category of "cut." In fact, it would be no lie to say that he is "fat." His latest picture, just finished, is called "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime." His next, to be begun as soon as the honeymoon is over, will be "Seventy-five Cents an Hour."

The bride couple reached Atlanta at 5:50 o'clock last night from New York. They had dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bishop, of North avenue, uncle and aunt of the groom. They left at 9:40 for Savannah and Cordele. Mr. Hiers was in Cordele and went to school in Savannah.

And, to wind up this little story of a modest movie star and his bride, Mr. Hiers calls her "Peaches" and she calls him "Walter."

The station who saw them last night who will vote that she lives up to her name in every particular.

Defense Offers To Submit Herring Case on Evidence

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Marion, Ill., January 16.—Offer to submit the case of the five men charged with the murder of Howard Hoffman, one of the victims of the Iroquois, to the jury immediately without argument or instructions was made by the defense today at the close of the state's rebuttal.

Otis Glenn, assistant attorney-general, announced that the state desired the case to take its usual course. Judge D. T. Hartwell, announced that the argument would begin tomorrow and the case would be submitted to the jury.

The completion of the state's case was marked by constant clashes between opposing counsel over the introduction of evidence by the state designed to refute an attack by the defense on the character of George Nelson, a farmer, and to substantiate the testimony given by Dr. C. F. Shipman, of Herring, and Donald Ewing, a Chicago newspaperman, all three of whom were witnesses for the prosecution.

Harding Confined To White House With Bad Cold

Washington, January 16.—President Harding, because of a cold which has afflicted him for several days, went to the white house today soon after the regular cabinet meeting and spent the afternoon in seclusion resting. He retired for the night early.

The president's personal physician, emphasized, however, that there was nothing serious in Mr. Harding's condition.

The first intimation that the president was indisposed was given at the usual Tuesday conference with newspaper men. After answering some questions on international and domestic problems, he indicated his wish that the conference be prolonged no further than necessary and it was at once terminated.

The president, it was said, caught cold last week, and on Monday after a busy morning at the executive offices, felt it best to spend the afternoon at the white house in his study.

He sent for his stenographer, however, and disposed of a mass of papers that had accumulated.

Mr. Harding has engagements for tomorrow covering the entire morning, but none for the afternoon. Some may be cancelled if he still desires to remain in seclusion.

More Than Half Of Rhine Soldiers Married Germans

New York, January 16.—More than fifty per cent of the American forces in Germany either have married German girls or are contemplating marriage, according to Major Charles Van Lusen, of the Salvation Army, who has just returned from Cologne.

He predicted that the American withdrawal would leave behind many broken hearts as the marriage ceremonies were performed according to German custom and without the consent of the American authorities. He said that the Americans were divided about equally on the question of returning home or remaining in Germany.

CATCH PEG-LEG THUG Capture Ends Career of Crime, Police Say.

"If you say anything I'll kill you," Cliff Hill, a peg-legged negro, declared at his end, around the shoulders of Bertha Turner, negroess, and proceeded to rob her of what valuables she happened to have on her person. She was none—according to the woman's story to the police early Tuesday night following the arrest of Hill.

On a word came from the victim, she stated, until after Hill had become discouraged and abandoned his search for valuables and "pegged away." Then she ran home, told her experience, and a male relative armed with a shotgun started out hunting the robber.

The first peg-legged negro he came across proved, according to the woman's identification, to be the one sought by the police were called. Officers declared that there was a big chance of Hill's being the peg-legged negro who figured in a hold-up several weeks ago and also in some purse-snatching escapades.

He is being held for further investigations.

peting for the three capital awards—the Packard twin six, the Franklin sedan and the Hudson coach; also for the four district awards in his own district. An attractive feature of this campaign is the fact that every active worker will be rewarded for his efforts as a volunteer of 10 per cent will be paid to all non-award winners who turn in $50 or more and do not win one of the regular listed prizes.

In a full page advertisement in this issue will be found the nominating blank. Fill it in with your name or the name of some one you think would make a good car owner.

Names to Be Printed. The name of every club member will be printed in a few days. See that your name or your favorite is listed. The campaign is short. It will close just ten weeks from the day the first list is published. If you live in Atlanta call at the office of The Constitution and talk to the Help Yourself club manager. If you cannot come to the office he will be pleased to send a representative to you who can explain the campaign in detail. If you live in the country write and your letter will receive most prompt attention. Read the full page advertisement in this issue, which gives you a complete list of the prize automobiles and where they will be displayed. It tells how they will be given, how votes are obtained, who can enter, how the territory is divided, gives you information regarding to the value of subscription payments as to votes, and complete details.

Where You Can Work.

Members are not restricted to their own districts in their campaign for subscription payments or free vote coupons. They may work in their own district or in any other district. The object of dividing the territory into districts is to assure each member that a complete list of prizes must go in their district irrespective of the total vote in any other district. Never before in the history of the southern newspaper has such a liberal offer been made to men and women by a newspaper. It marks an epoch in the liberality and enterprise of the modern newspaper.

Awards Are Free.

These awards, aggregating a very substantial amount, will be given absolutely free to the members of the Help Yourself club. The Constitution furnishes the club and the members are to help themselves. There will be no cost to the club members now or later. Everything will be absolutely free. There are no postmen's stamps of any description, and these awards will be given just as outlined. It is not even necessary for you to be a subscriber of The Constitution to compete. All that you have to do is to signify your intentions by filling out the nomination blank and sending it to the club manager.

ORDINANCE BODY WILL HEAR CHIEFS

For several days the police committee has considered the question of retiring Chief Beavers on half salary for the remainder of his life. This proposition, however, collapsed Monday when City Attorney James L. Mayson ruled that Chief Beavers could not be retired on half salary until he had served 35 years in the department, unless the city charter was amended by a general referendum.

Chief Beavers already has 34 years of service to his credit and will only have to serve one year in order to be eligible to receive a pension of $137.50 for the balance of his life.

Both Chief Beavers and Chief Poole have declared they will not retire from their respective positions without fighting to retain them. Under the present civil service laws, they can not be removed unless charges are preferred against them and they are convicted.

It is understood in political circles, although members of the committee deny it, that the police committee is considering the proposition of offering the two police officials "other positions of dignity" in the department provided they will voluntarily retire.

The resolutions adopted by the stewards follow: Whereas, we have heard Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the district federal court, with great satisfaction, satisfaction, and, whereas, we realize with him the widespread evils of the present day and a direct result of which, unless curbed by the just and proper administration of our courts of justice, will result in great damage to our persons, homes, business, schools and churches, leading at last to anarchy, which is the destruction of all government;

And, whereas, our prohibition laws especially are ridiculed and flouted in newspapers, moving pictures and public addresses, and disobeyed not only by bootleggers and winos, but by the very best of our citizens, the object being to break down at last prohibition and bring back the saloon under the guise of "wine and beer."

People Marvel at Quick Way Heroic Gum Remedy Clears Up Sore and Inflamed Throats.

HEROIC GUM REMEDY is not only used for Pyorrhea and other diseases of the mouth. It is a powerful germicide and healing agent that quickly clears up inflamed, sore throats. Simply use an equal amount of HEROIC GUM REMEDY and water as a gargle. Relief quickly follows.

Read what Miss Ada Yearwood, of Bethlehem, Ga., has to say of HEROIC GUM REMEDY and its rapid action in relieving a sore throat and rectifying unhealthy mouth conditions.

Having heard of your Remedy, I procured a bottle of same, and after having used less than half bottle my gums have become hardened and the bleeding has stopped entirely. I also used your Remedy for sore throat on two different occasions, only using the gargle once on each occasion, and it cured my sore throat immediately.

These are the changeable, disagreeable days when flu germs are rampant. Use HEROIC GUM REMEDY as a mouth wash and gargle so the germs cannot acquire a foothold on the mucous lining of your throat and mouth.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send $2 to Heroic Gum Remedy Co., Dept. C, Atlanta, Ga., for large size bottle, postpaid.—(adv.)

Therefore, be it resolved: That we, the stewards and other officers of the North and South Atlanta districts, representing 54 churches and over 20,000 members, hereby pledge our encouragement and support to our judges—federal and state—to our chief court officials, to our sheriffs and policemen;

That we urge all, from the highest to the lowest in office, to give themselves entirely to the enforcement of all laws, without fear or favor;

That we will stand by our officers in high performance of their sworn duties, and that we will, as good citizens of Georgia, and of the United States, obey the laws ourselves and encourage our fellow-citizens to do the same.

WITNESS FALS TO IDENTIFY MEN

request went to the latter's home that night.

Gray said he remained in an automobile in front of the Higginbotham home some time. While he was there he was supplied with a pistol by Higginbotham.

Higginbotham was warned in the letters to "get up and get out of the country," Gray said. "The letter did not go into detail but intimating that he might expect some trouble in the future."

Gray was on the witness stand for more than two hours. He said that he was seated on the porch of a house near the roadway when automobiles passed with blackhounded men and the men taken captives in their custody.

Higginbotham came along and went with him in his automobile to the Higginbotham home.

Gray was asked if he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

"Yes," he replied.

"When did you join?"

"In the latter part of 1921 or early in 1922," he testified at a meeting held in the Morehouse parish courthouse.

"I joined to see what it was all about and then got out."

Saw Hooded Men.

Robert Lee Harkness, employee of a Collinston merchant, testified that he saw the hooded band when they passed through that town on the night of August 24 with two automobiles seated in the rear of a small truck.

"Didn't you say you had a suspicion that three of the men were Edward W. Warren, special state's attorney, asked."

"Yes; about three of them."

"Tell the court who you had an idea they were?"

"I would not like to," Harkness, who gave his age as 22, said.

Harkness persisted in his disinclination to name the men and later explained that he didn't think his suspicions at that time were warranted.

"Didn't you make the positive statement that you could identify one of the men and that some one told you that he was better kept your mouth shut?" Harkness was asked.

"I don't think so."

"You have now reached the conclusion that you were mistaken?"

"Yes, I have changed my mind."

Harkness pointed out George Seth Guion, assistant attorney general, as the man with whom he had talked and had mentioned the name of one man.

Will Repeat Question.

Mr. Guion took up the questioning and told Harkness that he would be asked the same question at a later stage in the proceedings.

G. W. Walker testified that during services in a church near Mer Rouge a party of men gown in black and wearing black hoods marched into the church and read a warning against disturbance of public worship. He declared two of the men were Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, and a man named Kirkpatrick.

Dr. McKoin now is under bond to answer to an affidavit charging murder in connection with the killing of Daniel and Richard. One of the five men kidnapped at the time Daniel and Richard were taken captive have testified that they were questioned as an alleged attempt to assassinate the former mayor.

Walker said Kirkpatrick stood in the church door with a pistol in his hand while Dr. McKoin read the warning.

"The Bible gives three warnings," Walker said the announcement read by the blackhounded man declared, "We do not give but one."

Walker said the note was typewritten and signed Vigilante Committee. He declared the note required fifteen minutes to read, during which the reader apparently attempted to disguise his voice.

J. W. Hayden, a member of the same church, testified in corroboration of Walker.

Smith Stevenson, who was on the witness stand throughout the morning session, was questioned particularly as to the assembling of members of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan organization in Eastrop on the night of the kidnapping expedition to repel a possible attack on Bastrop by the people of Mer Rouge, which, it has been testified, was feared.

Stevenson said he was deputized as a special policeman.

He admitted going from store to store that night could not recall the names of men he came in contact with. For more than an hour three of the state's attorneys questioned Stevenson on what occurred early that night during a celebration held in Bastrop during the day.

He did not remember having seen any one point out Daniel during the celebration, he recalled seeing Richard and feeling "apparently intoxicated," but could not recall a number of other alleged incidents on that night on which he was questioned.

The state's attorneys suddenly switched their questioning to inquiries as to an automobile truck which Stevenson said was his property. During the afternoon of August 24 the truck was in use to carry water to a baseball field, he asserted, but so far as he knew was at his home that night and was not taken out.

"Was it there the next morning?" Stevenson was asked.

"I believe it was," he replied.

During the examination of Harkness the question was asked whether it was not true that the hood one of the men wore was torn. He replied in the affirmative, but said it was pinned and he did not recognize the man.

Gray's examination had not been completed when court adjourned for the day.

Gray said the kidnapped men he saw were in a small truck in good condition.

"Did you see the number of the truck?"

"No—about that time I was taking off my shoes; I had a sore foot," Gray said.

F. E. Morris, of Collinston, railroad agent, testified that he saw the truck with two blindfolded men seated in it, with a man wearing a black mask and armed with a pistol guarding them.

The truck was being replenished with gasoline, he said, after which it was driven to the railroad, where he believed, took the Lake La Four road.

Others of the five kidnapped at the same time have testified they were released at Collinston, that Daniel and Richard were still held prisoners at that time and that they were in a truck. It is expected that the questioning of Gray will be resumed at the opening of court tomorrow.

General expectations tonight that the hearing would continue at least a week longer.

Dreaming of You.

I.

Life has its shadows, but skies are still blue. Dreaming of you? The rose for my reaping, and never the rue. Dreaming of you? Darkness lies far from the beautiful skies. Life is summer and song in the light of your eyes. Dreaming of you!

II.

What welcome, dear tasks would you give me to do.

Dreaming of you? Earth the holiest heaven that Love ever knew.

Dreaming of you? Oh, when Love shall stand there, with the high portals gleam, it will be through the grace of this beautiful dream—

Dreaming of you!

III.

The Return.

Summer's like a sweetheart. Who left her lover lonely. But comes again, with kisses. To say she loves him only!

Where It Wouldn't Work.

The Windso: Review man has this of the Code method—

"If, as Coue, the French healer, says, very, very many of our ills are imaginary and are curable by auto-suggestion, which every one carries within himself, and can be chased away by saying twenty times every night before going to sleep and twenty times every morning at the moment of waking, 'day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better.' If one's subconscious mind can work these 'miracles,' why not for twenty evenings and twenty mornings—in an audile tone of voice, as Coue says—say to yourself, 'I've got a million dollars in my inside pocket,' and then on the twenty-first morning ram your fist into that inside pocket and pull out the bill from your grocer."

Piquant.

Piquant she is. Exquisite, rare. Slender and straight. And, ah, so fair.

Brownest of hair. Deepest of eyes. Eager with youth. Yet somehow wise.

Eyebrows uncurled. Slip of a nose. Reddest of lips. Warm as a rose.

Scoffer of love. Let her but smile. Captive are you. Chained with her guile.

Piquant she is. Exquisite, rare. Slender and straight. And, ah, so fair.

Elmer says that a foot rule morning-endwise 100,000 miles per second would be shortened to six inches.

As a corollary we conclude that it sped up to 320,000 miles per second the hind end would catch up with the front end and the thing would disappear entirely, leaving but a mystery where it had been. By applying this scientific principle we find why people to whom a book is short in the pocket book. Failure . . .

This is a chant that fools and knaves sing in light of the moon.

A mumbled obligato: Wise men and angels lip it not: They "fear to tread."

Cognizant are the struggles of each heart to Him. The hidden depths and secret scars lie deep . . .

This agony supreme—He knows. The longing in each quivering breast. And each unanswered prayer—He knows.

Come now, eringe not, faint not! Avail thyself. A soul unique is thine. None other counter-spirit was fashioned.

Thine is thine alone. Conform thyself. . . . Rise up! Fear, despair, ennui—envelop thee!

This mantle shed—then—Nude, transformed, full-fledged, stand forth, strengthed.

Non-ambiguously press on, with new strength undimmed.

Thine heritage, thy trust fulfill: God now thy Judge . . .

Thine effort counts. Fear not—press still!

Just In Passing!

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

A letter just received from the national women's party—which is a "party" without a political home—contains the information that it will have introduced in the forthcoming Georgia legislature a bill to equalize the rights, privileges and immunities of men and women under the laws of the commonwealth.

Similar bills, it seems, are to be introduced in the legislature of all the states, and in several of the southern states where assemblies are now in session, such bills have already been introduced.

This same organization is campaigning for the adoption of the following proposed amendment to the federal constitution: . . .

"No political, civil or legal disabilities on account of sex, on account of marriage, unless applying alike to both sexes, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction."

Without mining words let me suggest that these are mischievous—in deed dangerous—proposals.

Women now enjoy absolute political equality, which is right. The Georgia legislature no doubt will be willing to correct such civil and legal inequalities as require correction, but without depriving them of the privileges and immunities to which they are entitled and which are necessary for their welfare, and for the welfare of the race.

With this view in general, which I believe the men and the women of the south subscribe to almost to a person, then it would seem that the many complicated questions involving the civil and legal rights of men and women should be considered as separate problems.

That is to say each adjustment, if a change is wise, should be made as an entity, and upon its own merits.

Certainly any "blanket equality" is fraught with all kinds of dangers and embarrassments.

Among the evil results that would attend the placing of men and women upon absolute civil and legal equality would be the abrogation of the statutes relating to age of consent and other necessary forms of protection extended to young girls, discontinuance of dower rights and the special property rights accorded to widows in straitened circumstances, and removal of the protection accorded to women and girls employed in industries, both as to hours of work and working conditions.

These are social problems that cannot be adjusted on an equal footing if we preserve the high ideals of womanhood that have come down to us through the chivalry of the ages.

Something else—Under the civil and legal equality advocated by the women's national party there could be no discrimination on account of sex. A husband would be under no legal obligation to support his wife; a scoundrel would not need to consider a girl's age in carrying out his vile intentions; widows would lose their dower and homestead rights, and it would be legal to require women and girls to work long hours and under conditions dangerous to their health and morals.

In fact all the important social welfare and industrial legislation of the last generation would be destroyed.

The women of Georgia, in conformity with the 19th amendment to the federal constitution, should be given every civil and legal right which they ought to have and which may now be denied them, but in God's name let us not deprive them of that protection and watchful care which has made the south notable in the treatment of its daughters.

THE BOWERY NOW HAS ITS HOBO COLLEGE AT NO. 350. Among the road gentry are many of erudition. A professor of applied philosophy spoke the night I was there. He used words that were meaningless—but lovely. He was followed by a political economist, who once graced a mid-west college. In the summer months they take the open road but during the winter they migrate to New York. I talked to one ragged bearded fellow who seemed to me to have read only one book, and that was Spencer's Theory of Evolution. Perhaps I am wrong but all the professional hobos I have met appear to be half-cracked. Yet there is something about their don't-care outlook that has its appeal.

Near the Hobo college is the Rat Den—a tiny cellar hut. In it sit a young fellow who has made a niche for himself in Tin Pan Alley. He sat at a battered old table with a rough looking customer. I was told he was the musician's uncle and the very few months he dropped in to see him.

One of the ailments that has baffled New York physicians is the "hends." It afflicts hardy workers who toil in compressed air. During the building of the tubes under the Hudson river scores were stricken with this ailment. Air bubbles get in the blood and retard circulation. Now it has been found that skipping the rope will cure the ailment. Workers who are carrying the ropes along with their lunch baskets.

CHILDREN ATTENDING these old-fashioned schools almost fear to blow their noses in school, lest the old-fashioned teachers take offense and give them demerits. It is like moving your feet or whispering.

The nasal drill, as performed in staid old England, is as follows: The children stand as far apart as possible in a room with the windows open. Each pupil holds in the hand a paper handkerchief. At the command ONE, all stand erect, chest out, shoulders back. TWO, hold handkerchief spread out in left hand beneath nostrils. THREE, grasp the nose between the eyes with right thumb and forefinger, without compressing nostrils, blow straight out at level of shoulder. FOUR, blow down the nose, bowing the head forward and down and at the same time bringing the elbow down against the side. FIVE, breathe in through the mouth, blow the elbow again to level of shoulder.

Repeat this rhythmically about ten times. Then burn the paper handkerchief.

Next the nose is irrigated by inducing sneezing by flicking or snuffing a mild powder, consisting of soap with a trace of menthol. After sneezing the pumping of the nose is repeated.

Finally a few slow, deep breaths, first through one nostril, then through the other, are taken. The children should be encouraged to practice this at home.

To some this may seem a silly performance. Yet it seems very good to me. Youngsters from 4 to 12 years of age often do not know how to blow the nose properly and they should be taught. Never should a child blow the nose with the nostrils pinched together.

Regular performance of the nasal pumping drill brings about diminution of nasal discharge, often shrinkage of adenoid masses, improvement in the child's general condition, better carriage, less mouth breathing, less snoring, diminished susceptibility to the respiratory infections, better appetite, better speech, better hearing.

I command the drill to mothers whose children may be unavoidably exposed to the foul air school rooms and the nineteenth century style of school teachers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Nothing Doing. Five feet I am 25 years of age, only. Is there anything one can do to increase one's height?—Miss V. B.

Answer—Just grow, that's all. If there were any such thing I'd do it myself.

Scattering Pimples. I am a school girl 18 years of age and my forehead and sometimes my cheeks have scattering pimples, they stay red and sore for a long time.—Z. B. M.

Answer—Rub into the skin around the base of each pimple a little one per cent ammoniated mercury ointment each night. Half an ounce of the one per cent ammoniated mercury

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution)

BLOW, CHILDREN, BLOW. BLOW WITH CARE. They're drilling children in England now in the rudimentary but important business of blowing the nose. And this art, simple and instinctive as it seems, threatens to become a lost art, like wiggleing the ears, among children, to their physical injury. The nasal drill is of distinct advantage for relieving the symptoms of adenoids. Many cases of adenoids in school children must be ascribed to the depraving influence of five hours of confinement in foul air in school—by foul air I mean air heated above the healthful limit of 68 degrees Fahrenheit. Such air one encounters in nearly every indoor school room in cold weather. I visited the principal of a large high school the other day and found him basking under a room temperature of 75 degrees—and some folks were burning waste paper in their furnaces trying to keep warm. I told the principal that his school air claims 2,500 pupils is still back in the nineteenth century, and he thought I was just capricious.

Children attending these old-fashioned schools almost fear to blow their noses in school, lest the old-fashioned teachers take offense and give them demerits. It is like moving your feet or whispering.

CLIMATIC CHANGES.

Ice is melting from the Pole, the New warmer weather records there are broken "while U wait." Seals no longer have to wear their heavy furs or freeze.

And soon they'll all be gambling around in B. V. D's. A pity 'tis that this should be, as it will I s'pose.

For what will all the ladies do then for their new fur cloths? They'll do just as they're ever done: they'll seek the bargain store. And come back with some other kind, priced just—say—ten times more!

Dr. Parks Lauds Franklin's Life On Anniversary

Says School Children Should Study Thrift of Great American.

By DR. M. M. PARKS.
State School Superintendent.

Today is the anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birthday. He was born January 17, 1706. That was 217 years ago. It was 70 years ago that the Declaration of Independence was signed.

It was 27 years before Georgia was founded. It was 26 years before Washington was born. Every school child should study the life of Franklin. He was a painter, a publisher, a manufacturer, an inventor, a scientist, a writer, a diplomat, a statesman, and a philosopher.

E. A. Duke says: "Two of the greatest Americans, Franklin and Lincoln, owe their greatness largely to the fact that they were thrifty. Both were poor boys and both acquired enough property to make them financially independent and to enable them to devote a part of their time to the public good."

The fact that during their early years they exercised their will power, submitted to self-imposed discipline, denied themselves present pleasures for future gain, steadily refused to yield to temptations, and avoided waste in all things, led to the development of moral stamina and character, which inspired them to a place in our national history.

The success of these men and of all successful men is due to the fact that they gained many victories over themselves. Therefore, the teacher who inspires the pupil to make sacrifices in order that he may save or earn money, confers a benefit upon that pupil which will be of great value to him in the future.

DAMAGES OF $50,000 ASKED FOR DEATH OF MRS. JOHNSON

A damage suit for $50,000 was brought against the Atlanta and West Point Railroad company Tuesday by H. M. Johnson, of 288 Cooper street, husband of Mrs. H. M. Johnson, who was killed Saturday at a crossing in East Point by a passenger train. The suit was filed in the Fulton superior court by Austin & Boykin and John Highsmith, attorneys for the plaintiff.

The petition alleges that the train was moving at a rate of speed between 30 and 35 miles per hour, which, it states, is a violation of the city ordinance of East Point, that the death was partly due to the negligence of the engineer and fireman operating the train in failing to sound a warning within 400 yards of the crossing, which is required by state law, and that the engineer and fireman were not keeping a proper lookout ahead.

The petition further contends that the crossing should have warning bells installed, and a watchman or flagman on hand to prevent such accidents, and that the railroad should keep an unobstructed view of the crossing at all times and not allow cars to remain on sidings near the crossing, which, it alleged, was the state of affairs at the time of Mrs. Johnson's death.

SAY GERMANY PLAYS INTO POINCARÉ'S HANDS

British Officials Declare Germany "Biggest Treaty Breaker in World."

London, January 16.—British officials attribute resistance to the French occupation of the Ruhr to "German stupidity." Germany, by her policy of obstruction to the French effort of collecting reparations with bayonets and shovels, is playing right into the hands of Premier Poincaré, in the opinion of members of the government of Bonar Law.

A high official pointed out to the United News-Mo. day that Germany's case before the world would have been strengthened and the British reparations scheme aided if no obstacles had been placed in the way of the French invaders.

Had it not been for Germany's resistance, this official declared, Great Britain, in a few months, would be able to speak as follows to France: "You see now that we were right. You are unable to get reparations by occupation. Now which is the better plan—the one Bonar Law presented at the allied premiers' conference which would have put Germany the debtor, on her feet so she could pay, or yours?"

British officialdom is obviously angry at the policy of the Cuno government. There is much pessimism concerning the situation, although no trouble is anticipated.

The authority quoted above added that it is foolish for Germany to upbraid France, charging breaches of the Versailles treaty, when Germany herself is the biggest treaty breaker in the world.

DECLARES HIGHWAYS NATIONAL PROBLEM

Leaders of the Good Roads Movements of U.S. Gather in Chicago.

Chicago, January 16.—The needs of adequate highways have grown so large that questions regarding roads no longer are matters of state jurisdiction but have become a national problem, T. J. Wassner, president of the American Road Building association, declared here today in opening the thirteenth annual Good Roads conference.

Representative leaders in the good roads movement from every section of the nation were gathered in the coliseum where the congress will remain in session through Friday.

"While highway construction is rated as the fifth industry of the United States there is a lack of cooperation among the several interests involved, with a resulting unnecessary expense," President Wassner said.

"This can be corrected by recognizing the several component parts of the industry and by standardizing, as nearly as possible, the products and methods employed."

"The greatest abuse often comes to a highway before it is built, namely the failure to provide adequate drainage, faulty pavement, and choice of location to suit certain interests."

"Abuse of highways is generally caused by a small percentage of users. Such abuses frequently result in accidents, causing injury and loss of life and destruction. The problem requires both adequate traffic planning and proper enforcement of regulations according to the plan."

Mrs. Price Prevents Chloroform Bandits From Robbing Home

An attempt by chloroform burglars to rob the home of Francis E. Price, 402 N. Boulevard, failed when Mrs. Price was roused by the odor of the drug that was sprayed through the window of her bedroom.

Mr. Price called the police who verified the odor of the drug and marled on the window that had been made by a burglar's jimmy, it was said.

Tracks were found just outside the window which proved to the officers' satisfaction that the drug burglars had spent considerable time at the window through which they sprayed the anesthetic.

Mr. Price is the staff photographer of The Constitution.

Six chloroform cases have been reported to the police within the last two months. In several instances large sums of money were taken while the victims were under the influence of the drug.

AUTHORITIES HOLD NEGRO BANK HEAD FOR EMBEZZLING

J. O. Ross, colored, first vice president of the Atlanta State Savings bank, colored institution that failed January 12, 1922, was taken into custody Tuesday and lodged in the Fulton county tower under a bond of $10,000. He is charged with embezzlement.

A crew of the Southern Railway company, according to evidence submitted, was delivering a string of box cars over the Western and Atlantic to that road, when the train of cars was stopped in the path of Mr. Steele's train, without giving proper signals.

He entered suit for $15,000.

Both went to New York, it is said, the younger Ross returning later, in an effort to assist in clearing up the bank affairs. Ross' father is still sought by the police, but so far no trace has been found of him. His son refuses to make any statements relative to his father's whereabouts.

Ross was taken into custody at the offices of the Standard Loan and Realty company, at 194 1-2 Auburn avenue. He arrived in Atlanta Sunday from Chicago, it was stated. He was not aware that the authorities held a warrant for his arrest.

A committee consisting of President Emmett L. Quinn, Jerome Jones, J. F. Scott, Louis P. Marquard, Charlie Granling and F. W. Ehlers, of the Atlanta Federation of Labor, called upon Mayor Walter R. Sims Tuesday, to extend him cordial greetings on behalf of the federation and pledged the new municipal administration its fullest cooperation.

At a recent meeting of the federation, resolutions were adopted, appointing a committee to convey its sentiments to the city's new chief executive, which committee is present inasmuch as this is the first time action of this nature has been officially taken by the federation.

Mayor Sims welcomed the committee and informed it that he would at all times be governed in his administration policies by the wishes of the masses, and not a selected few who would design to run the city for their personal advantages.

PONCE DE LEON TROLLEY SERVICE CHANGE IS ASKED

Petition of the Georgia Railway & Power company, asking permission to extend their car service on the Ponce de Leon line and run cars at 20 minute instead of 10-minute intervals, was received Tuesday by the Georgia public service commission.

The petition asks that the company be allowed to extend the limits of their line to the East Lake drive junction with Ponce de Leon. The cars at present do not run beyond Clifton avenue, although the tracks are built to the drive. In order to make this extension, the company asks that they be allowed to run a twenty-minute schedule on the line, instead of the ten-minute schedule now given.

AUTO ASSOCIATION TO DISCUSS EXHIBIT

New Officers to Be Installed at the Meeting Tonight.

The first 1923 regular monthly membership meeting of the Atlanta Automobile Association, made up of automobile and accessory dealers of Atlanta, will be held at the Capital City club tonight, preceded by a supper. The meeting will be given up almost entirely to promotion and discussion of the Southern Automobile show, to be staged under the auspices of the association at the auditorium the week of February 17 to 24, inclusive.

Not only has every available foot of space used in years past been sold at the auditorium, but a mezzanine floor has been erected to accommodate the extraordinary demand made for space by exhibitors this year. It will be reported. Outside of the shows in Chicago and New York, the Atlanta show surpasses anything else in the country, it is declared.

W. R. C. Smith, second vice president of the association and widely known civic leader of Atlanta, will deliver the feature address on "How automobile and accessory dealers can get the most in a business way out of the 1923 automobile show." Mr. Smith will be followed by R. H. Martin, general chairman on arrangements for the automobile show, who has just returned from New York and who will tell members many interesting sidelights regarding that big enterprise. Those who have subscribed for automobile space will draw by lot for their positions in the auditorium.

EFFORT TO KEEP JAMES J. BLALOCK FROM RESIGNING

The first resignation submitted in a municipal department since the new administration assumed charge of the city government, came Tuesday when James J. Blalock, assistant city purchasing agent, made known to Purchasing Agent J. N. Landers of his decision to resign.

Efforts are being made by Mr. Landers to induce his assistant to reconsider. The latter, in offering his resignation, asked that it become effective at the earliest convenience.

Newly elected officers for 1923 will be installed, each being called on for a two-minute talk on some means whereby the service of the association during the coming year can be enlarged. An orchestra will be on hand and many interesting features will be introduced.

Twice—the Oakland has Proved Its Economy

SWEEPSTAKES and Class prizes in the two most important Economy and Endurance contests held during 1922 were won by stock Oakland cars!

In both contests, still smaller four-cylinder cars yielded to the superior economy and greater endurance of the Oakland Six.

And yet—still more compelling evidence of Oakland economy is found in the thousands upon thousands of voluntary testimonials from Oakland owners who are regularly averaging from 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline and 20,000 miles or more per set of tires.

U. S. SODA NITRATE FOUND EXCELLENT

State Agricultural Department Investigated It. Effort Is Made to Open Bids to Small Farmers.

Report of inspections made by officials of the office of Georgia commissioner of agriculture on the analysis and condition of the nitrate of soda offered for sale at the Old Hickory Powder plant, Hermitage, Tenn., by the United States war department, was made public Tuesday afternoon, showing the chemical to be in generally good condition and above the commercial average in content of nitrogen.

Commissioner Brown sent these officials to Tennessee last week to make the tests, following requests for such action from a large number of Georgia farmers. Among others requesting this action was L. P. Pattillo, banker of Buford, Ga.

It was felt that the department should make a careful report on the condition of this nitrate, inasmuch as the government makes no guarantee whatsoever. The state department of agriculture can make no guarantee, itself, but offers the report to Georgia farmers for their information.

Seeks Minimum Reduction.
The war department proposes to sell this nitrate on January 30 and has asked for bids in 100 tons lots or more. Mr. Brown is at present endeavoring to have the minimum bid reduced to 20 tons, or one car load, in order that more groups of farmers may avail themselves of the opportunity.

The report follows in part:
The commissioner stated that he sent Dr. S. H. Wilson, state chemist, to inspect this soda and found that the 28,000 tons proposed in this sale was located in warehouse Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7. Apparently the condition of the soda was good. The bags were in fairly good shape in warehouse Nos. 4 and 5, but in warehouse No. 6, but in warehouse No. 7, bags were overlapped and this necessitated trying to get them loose to look in cars and boxes. This necessarily meant that a number of bags would be torn in reaching from warehouse to the cars. But if buyers should desire to have the soda re-bagged, the government would be called to warehouse No. 6, in which there is located about 6,000 tons, which warehouse was recently burned. But within a very short time the warehouse was rebuilt and apparently the only damage to the soda was that the surface, as the analysis given below on this warehouse will clearly indicate the soda is still in good condition.

From this same lot 25,000 tons were sold on December 15, and brought an average price of $47.10. Dr. Wilson stated that in addition to the analyses given below, the average analysis on three warehouses from which samples were taken is 15.91 per cent nitrogen, the average commercial guarantee being 14.85 per cent. This would clearly indicate that the percentage of nitrogen in this soda is ample to warrant the price paid in the previous sale.

Senate Resolution.
Mr. Brown stated further that he realized that, as a result of the previous sale, the smaller farmers in Georgia would not be able to make a bid on lots of 100 tons, therefore this effort is being put forth to try to make arrangements in order that the rural communities of Georgia (a few farmers) might get together and make a bid on 20 tons, or one car, as a minimum instead of a minimum of 100 tons.

He has taken this matter up vigorously with the Georgia senators and, as a result of his request, there has been introduced a resolution in the senate calling on the war department to take this matter up and see what can be done along this line. The bids on this soda must be filed with the war department, 808 Army building, No. 30 Whitehall street, New York, by noon, January 20, accompanied by a certified check made payable to the treasurer of the United States for at least 10 per cent of the bids submitted. Blanks for making these bids can be secured from J. J. Brown, commissioner, state capitol, Atlanta, Ga.

The nitrate contained in these various warehouses is a high-grade product and is in an excellent condition.
The average guarantee for commercial nitrate of soda is about 14.85 per cent. These samples will all average almost 1 per cent above this guarantee.

MRS. MAGNOLIA GROW IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Magnolia Grow, mother-in-law of the former Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, who was an executive in the propagation department of the Ku Klux Klan, was seriously injured Tuesday noon, when the car she was riding in collided with a machine driven by Dr. W. L. Gilbert, former member of the Fulton county commission. The accident happened at Pershing Point, the intersection of the two Peachtrees.

Mrs. Grow was on the way to the hospital when the accident happened. Her car was driven by her son, S. W. Grow, 320 Howell Mill road. She was taken to the Georgia Baptist hospital where at first her condition was thought to be critical. Hospital authorities state that the shock of the accident caused a serious reaction. She is suffering from extreme nervousness. Neither Dr. Gilbert nor Mr. Grow was seriously hurt.

WILLIAM G. TURNER DIES IN CLARKSTON

William G. Turner, 79, Confederate veteran and former Atlantan, died Monday afternoon at his residence in Clarkston. Mr. Turner was born and raised in Alpharetta, Milton county, and came to Atlanta in 1886, living here until 1920, when he moved to Clarkston. While living in Atlanta he was connected with the Southern railway for many years. He is widely known.

Surviving him are six sons, O. L. T. W. J. J. E. W. T. and J. W. E. Turner, and three daughters, Mrs. S. Taylor, Mrs. Henry Hughes and Mrs. T. T. Pounds. Funeral services will be conducted at Clarkston Baptist church, of which he was a member, at 11 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be in Decatur cemetery. Harry G. Poole in charge.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS LECTURE ON CEMENT

An address by Victor Kreisshaber on "Cement and its Manufacture," featured the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at the Capitol City club Tuesday. Mr. Kreisshaber outlined the process of manufacturing cement. He called cement "the magic power of this age" and said it has done more for the development of building than any other material. A moving picture reel was flashed upon the screen illustrating the talk.

A number of short talks were made by various members of the club, including Rabbi David Marks who introduced Herbert Collier as a new member of the organization. Paul Howard Norcross was the recipient of a birthday present from the Rotarians. Sixteen visiting Rotarians were introduced.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent cures the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Careful people of some 50 nations now employ it, largely by dental advice.

Night and day

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize mouth acids as they form. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to these natural agents which night and day fight acids—the cause of tooth decay.

You'll welcome it

Pepsodent will delight you. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Watch these effects. Cut out this coupon and send it for a test. It will be a revelation.

Nice Teeth Combat that film if you seek that supreme charm

A few years ago, beautiful teeth were seen less often than now. Now millions show them. You see them everywhere. People are combating film.

Tooth troubles were almost universal. Now people combat the cause in a scientific way.

Won't you now learn what brought that change about?

Film—the enemy

Film is the great tooth enemy—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

It absorbs stains, then forms dingy coats. Tartar is born on film. That's why teeth lose their luster.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That's how tooth troubles come.

The new methods

Now we daily fight that film. Dental science, after long research, found two effective ways. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those methods. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two great film combatants were embodied in it.

RAILROAD SERVICE VITAL TO THE WORLD'S PROGRESS

The importance of American railroads to the health, wealth and happiness of every reader of this newspaper was clearly demonstrated during the period of government control, when the exigencies of war made necessary the curtailment of certain privileges and advantages to the traveling and shipping public.

Realization of this condition has happily changed the attitude of the public towards the railroads of America, and the increasing tendency towards fair-minded consideration of the railroads' problems has wrought mutual benefits with the promise of still greater co-operation in the future.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, as the great highway of traffic and travel through the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and one of the strongest links in the American chain of railroads, renders both a sectional and general service of greatest importance.

AGGRESSIVE BASEBALL PLAYER'S BIGGEST NEED

Hugh Jennings Corrected Faults by Determination; Origin of Hit-and-Run

John McGraw Says That Modern Players Have Lost Art of Hitting Scientifically, Thinking Only of Home Runs.

BY JOHN J. MCGRAW.

When we showed up at New Orleans in the spring of 1893 for training I got an inkling of what Ned Hanlon was trying to do in the way of building up a ball club. It was very clear to me that he was seeking vigor and spirit. Up to that time—and that is often true today—baseball people hesitated to try anything new. Veterans can be counted on to do the right thing—at any rate, the usual thing—and there is a tendency to let them go alone. But managers, in this sense of security, go too far. They do not realize that the old-timers are slipping; do not see the necessity of young blood soon enough. In other words, it is a human failing to follow the line of least resistance. The work of building is tedious and nerve-racking. To avoid it is human.

Ned Hanlon evidently had made up his mind to get rid of all these old ideas and spring something entirely new on the big league. He had been impressed by the eagerness and ambition of kids like Jennings and myself. So, when we arrived at New Orleans we found another young fellow—Joe Kelley, Joe had come to Baltimore in exchange for George Halgren, the deepest leader of the Orioles. Joe was a wonderful outfielder, was fast and could hit. Like Jennings and myself, he also thought and dreamed in baseball.

The first day of practice Jennings walked up to the plate, stepped into the ball and smacked it for a single. Hanlon was surprised to see that he did not pull away from the plate, as had been his failing the year before. We had corrected that fault during the winter at St. Bonaventure college. JENNINGS' FAULT WAS "PULLING AWAY."

Jennings had hit but little over .200, but had been retained on account of his wonderful fielding. He had the bad habit of pulling away with his forward foot when swinging at the ball. In baseball we call that putting one's foot in the mud. The idea being that a player will pull so far away as to step to the bench. That pull away naturally draws the bat so far from the plate that it is practically impossible to meet the ball squarely. We talked this over for hours. Finally I hit on a scheme that Jennings agreed to try.

In the college cage I placed Jennings up against the screen so that it was impossible for him to pull away in that direction. For hours I pitched to him. Being unable to back away he had to step into the ball. The foot, instead of going off to one side, would step directly forward. This was very awkward at first. For a long time it looked as if we could not get away with the scheme. But Hughes and I were both determined. After a week of this he found himself stepping into the ball instead of away from it.

This practice wrought such a change in his batting that the next season he hit .320 as against the former .200.

In addition to facing the ball this changing of the direction of the step enables the batter to hit the ball in front of the plate. He can thus meet the ball before it breaks. In other words, he is on top of the ball instead of the ball being on top of him.

In those days we practiced the short, sharp chop at the ball instead of the long swing. Of course we did not hit so many home runs but we made more runs. This was the origin of the hit-and-run. I still think the best system.

Awake back, you will recall, I told of having found Sammy Strang $25 for hitting a home run when I had instructed him to bunt the ball. That is an example of the difference in the methods. Today if Sammy had hit that home run he would have been a great hero. I might have fallen for the glamor of it myself, because everybody seems to be running to the long swing style of hitting nowadays. Still, I would never stand for any ball player disobeying instructions, even though it won a game.

That season we had as a battery

Wilbert Robinson, one of the greatest catchers that ever lived, and John McMahon, better known as "Sadie" McMahon, as pitcher. We have never had many better pitchers than McMahon. In addition to being a great pitcher he was a great judge of ball players and a close student of the game.

It was Sadie McMahon, by the way, who discovered George Burns, the outfielder. I had engaged McMahon as scout for the Giants. He went out with the intention of getting a good ballplayer nothing. "I'll bet on him," he said to me; "but I won't dig up any bad ones. It's my idea that too much money and time are wasted on ball players just for the sake of trying them out."

McMahon scouted all season, and I heard little or nothing from him. ONE BALL PLAYER. "Mac," he said on his return, "I have covered the whole United States and I have found but one ball player who looks good. I'll bet on him."

This man was George Burns, and the fans of the country know enough about this great outfielder to appreciate McMahon's judgment. He more than earned his year salary by digging up that one player.

Wilbert Robinson had his heart and soul in baseball, and he chimed right in with the ambitions of Jennings, Kelly and myself. Though he was older, he was just as young in spirit. Working with him and McMahon, we thought up many new plays and schemes for advancing base runners. We really gave the hit and run play its first good start.

To work the hit and run play successfully it is necessary that the batter be adept in placing the ball. I imagine that most every fan understands the principles of this play. The main idea is, if there be a runner on first, to signal him to start for second, as if to steal a base. At the same moment the batter swings at the next ball whether it be a good one or not. Having swung, the batter has a pretty good idea as to whether the second baseman or the shortstop will cover second base.

If the second baseman starts to cover the bag it is the batter's cue to smack the ball between first and second—through the spot left vacant by the second baseman. If the shortstop starts to cover the bag it is the batter's cue to smack the ball between first and second—through the spot left vacant by the second baseman. If the shortstop starts to cover the bag it is the batter's cue to smack the ball between first and second—through the spot left vacant by the second baseman.

We worked this play very successfully several times. Hanlon, seeing the possibilities of the whole team of such ambitious plays, began figuring for other new players.

Anyone with half an eye to the future can see the gradual making of a great championship team. Though we did not know it he already had put out feelers for additional talent.

Even with the small nucleus that we had we developed a fighting policy. We learned how to slide accurately and went into them all, determined to win. Never did we play for a tie.

We wanted a victory or nothing. I have never believed in playing for a tie. For instance, if there is a runner on second and we need a run to tie I always call for a hit instead of a sacrifice. One run would merely tie the score. A long hit might bring the one run and start another. The main idea is to win. An effort to merely tie is always considered a sign of weakness.

Aggressiveness is the main thing in baseball. That is what we were sining at. Hanlon added to our war by a series of big trades. This move on his part started something.

DIXIE HURLERS STAR IN A. A.

Former Southern association pitchers were the most brilliant performers in the American association last season, according to the pitching average for that league.

Claude ("Bubber") Jonnard, former Traveler, ranks as the leader as a result of his seven victories and one defeat during the brief period he was with the Indianapolis club. McGraw sent "Bubber" to the Indians about midseason, but speedily recalled him.

In nine games at the A. A. "Bubber" pitched 75 innings, allowed only 18 earned runs, struck out 41 batters and gave 24 bases on balls. His earned average of 2.16 per nine innings is the best made in the league.

Tom Sheehan, former Atlanta iron man, with St. Paul, won the most games, 26. He lost 12 and is listed second in the league in earned runs per game. He allowed 3.01 runs per game.

"Pug" Cavet, former Mobile southpaw, ranks third with 3.17 earned runs per game. "Pug" pitching for Indianapolis, won 14 and lost 11 games.

Carmen Hill, the former Baron, who wears glasses while in the box, won 13 and lost 12 for Indianapolis. Tom Rogers, formerly with Nashville, won 13 and lost 8 at St. Paul. Emilio Palmero, former Traveler, won 15 for Columbus, but lost 17, which is a good record to make with a poor hit club.

Ben Tincup, Indian pitcher, whose brilliant work as a Traveler in 1917 always will be remembered here, won 20 and lost 14 with Louisville. Tom Phillips, former Traveler and Pelican, won 9 and lost 7 for Minneapolis. Tommy Long, with Birmingham in 1918 and who is to be with Mobile next season, won 7 and lost 9 with Louisville. Howard Merritt, former Chick now with St. Paul, broke even with 9 and 9.

MERCER WINS OVER MACON

Macon, Ga., January 16.—(Special.) Mercer made it three straight over Macon Y. M. C. A. tonight with an easy victory 39 to 22. The game got away to a thrilling start with the blues taking an early lead but the Cymen soon overcame them and stayed out in front the rest of the way. A foul goal by George Harmon was the first scoring of the contest but on the next play the blues went in front.

They managed to keep the lead until King Dunn shot two pretty field baskets and knotted the count at 17. Following this Harmon got two more fouls and Pelham Fuss did as much for the Y and the score stood for five minutes in the second and last tie, 9 to 9.

At this point Dunn got his third two pointer and Mercer was well on the road to victory. With the half two-thirds gone, Josh put in Captain Bob Gamble who evidently had on his shooting clothes for before the timer called the end of the half he had dropped in three baskets, all of which came from difficult angles.

George Harmon was again the high point man for the Mercers but he was off in his shooting at that. Bob Gamble crowded him for hours with six pretty ringers. King Dunn likewise contributed bountifully to Mercer's crew.

For the blues, Pelham Fuss was the hero. This long boy scored 19 of his team's 22 points. He covered the floor in fine style and played an excellent all around game. Tublin, Sadie Robinson and Davis also gave good accounts of themselves. Connelley used ten men in his line up playing as many as he could in the last game before the long trip to New York.

N. C. CAPTAIN LEAVES TEAM

BY ROY E. WHITE

Chapel Hill, N. C., January 16. (Special.)—William A. Blount, captain-elect of the 1923 football team, has accepted a responsible position with Liggett & Myers Tobacco company and will not return to Carolina next year. He, therefore, tendered his resignation as captain for 1923.

Blount first entered the University of North Carolina in 1915, but it was not until he was a senior, 1919, that he became a member of the football team. He was out in 1919, but returned to study law in 1921. For the past two seasons he has been one of the extra valuable men on the squad. Not only for his ability as a center, and he has been the outstanding center in the South Atlantic states, but also for his ability as a kicker on several occasions his goal from placement have spelled victory for Carolina. He has made good about 90 per cent of his attempts to add the extra point after touchdowns. His resignation leaves a wide gap in the center of the Carolina line which will be hard to plug.

At a recent meeting of the letter men in football, Roy "Casey" Morris, of Gastonia, N. C., was elected to succeed Blount as leader of the 1923 eleven. Morris played left end in the 1922 team. He is a native of the state and has been a member of the team for the last two years. Not only does "Casey" play left end on the football team, but he also is a catcher on the basketball team. He is the first Carolina athlete to be honored with two captaincies in many years, which fact alone is a tribute to his popularity, ability and leadership.

The association was organized five years ago, Mrs. George Harrington serving as the first president. Other well-known feminine golfers who have held this office are Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, Mrs. B. Latham, and Mrs. T. Williams.

The point schedule of the association was won by Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, East Lake, class B. Mrs. J. E. Jagoe, East Lake, class B. They also won the East Lake trophy.

Sammy Mayer First Player To Sign With Little Rock

Ray Roberts, Once With Atlanta, Will Get Chance With Travelers, President Bob Allen Says.

Little Rock, Ark., January 16.—(Special.)—Sammy Mayer established himself yesterday as leader of the Little Rock club in the Contract League. The official paper with Sam's name on the dotted line was received yesterday by President R. G. Allen upon his return from New Orleans where he spent the week working on the schedule for the coming season.

Mayer is the first player upon whom the local club is definitely counting for the 1923 line-up to send in a signed contract. In fact the ex-Cracker is the only man offered a contract. One was sent him by way of finally closing up the deal that transferred him from Atlanta to Little Rock. Other players will not be sent contracts until after the season.

Contract Allen has one other veteran player under contract—Pitcher Ray Roberts—but Ray isn't one of the boys the local club is positively betting on. Roberts was signed for the sake of giving him an opportunity to try the Southern association once more. He may turn out to be a very valuable man for the local club and the prexy is hoping so but Ray will have to show something before being regarded as a regular.

Youngsters Signed. Several young ball players have been signed up for trials in the spring. Prexy Allen having approximately a dozen such contracts on hand. None of these youngsters is known to the fans and their names would mean nothing at this time. Some are said to be splendid prospects but they are unknown in organized baseball.

Prexy Allen returned yesterday afternoon from the New Orleans meeting where he and President Heinemann, of New Orleans, and Smith, of Birmingham, arranged a schedule for 1923. The schedule will be printed and distributed among the club owners of the league who will meet January 20 at Mobile to accept, amend or reject it.

Mr. Allen found a big bundle of mail waiting to be opened. One letter came from Mayer enclosing his signed contract. Mayer wrote that he was entirely satisfied with the terms of the contract, was in good health and confident of having a good year with Little Rock.

Another letter came from the Boston American league club and closed negotiations for an exhibition game at Kavanagh field in the spring between the Red Sox and Travelers. The game will be played April 3. This is the first date definitely arranged in the exhibition schedule. Ira Thomas, of the Red Sox, will pitch for the Shreveport club of the Texas league, while asking for a series of games in his park with the Travelers. Mr. Thomas is a big fellow, six feet, six inches, weighs 150 pounds and has everything a pitcher needs to win ball games.

The splendid success of the Carterville baseball team, both from the financial and winning standpoint, was so good last year that Mr. Lee, the secretary-treasurer, authorized the statement that Carterville is going to have the best team in north Georgia this year.

The people of eastern Alabama are wondering just what it takes to make a big league pitcher. They will tell you that if there is any hurler in the big show that can pitch better than "Mutt" Wilson, who pitched 10 games for Columbus and hit all 10, they would like to look at him. Two of the games he won were against the strong Piedmont, Ala., team and won the championship of the state.

"Mutt" is a big fellow, six feet, six inches, weighs 150 pounds and has everything a pitcher needs to win ball games. He has a pretty fair average so far. They have been beaten three times, twice by the Albany "Y" and once by the Washok club. They have defeated Tech, Camp Benning, Macon "Y" and several others.

Tech and Mercer met Saturday night. Mercer by that time will have played the Atlanta Athletic club, from which team he was released.

Prep Stars Developing Rapidly Several Playing in S. S. League

BY ROY E. WHITE

Prep basketball games come but twice a week but the teams are playing every day just the same. Tuesday afternoon the Commercial High team, heretofore rated as only a fair basketball team—but one that stepped out last Saturday afternoon and won a game from Fulton after the county lads had piled up a seemingly safe lead in the first half—scrimmaged the Georgia Tech freshmen five on the Y. M. C. A. courts for more than an hour.

The showing of the Commercial team in the Saturday game indicates that they are a willing bunch of workers and that they are never better than the team made a very creditable showing against the Tech freshmen and did some splendid passing. The team-work is improving with each game. Coach Boon, at University, will hold a hard scrimmage this afternoon as will Boys' High but Coach Johnson will take things easy after today for they will have two of his hard games of the first half on Friday and Saturday.

The Smithies are also putting in a bit of extra time in preparation for the game with Boys' High Friday afternoon. Many of the prep basketball players are getting in some night workouts in the Sunday school leagues. Monday night, Medlin, of University, appeared in one of the teams, as did Captain Breck, of Tech High. Fred has been ill with flu for the past several days and he played against University Saturday against orders.

Stars Developing. From the first two rounds of prep basketball it was seen that no matter what stars are developed in one season, there are bound to be some developed the very next one. Last season Tech High had Richardson, Clifford and Brooks; University had Laird; G. M. A. had King and Boys' High had Stephens. At the beginning of this season there were no such stars to report for practice but with two or three weeks' practice some notes have been taken to take the place of last year's stars.

Boys' High has in Stephens one of the best foul goal shots in prep circles. His record is a good one and he is the outstanding scorer of the league at present. His ability to shoot fouls and field goals as well has made him a dangerous man to turn loose on the court. University developed Tom Medlin in the first day's play but the very next afternoon Tech High broke loose on field goals and spilled the best for the Smithies.

What man on the University team will get loose against Boys' High Saturday? Should the burden be cast on the shoulders of "Buster" Hughes, then Boys' High will worry no longer for if he has shot a field goal in prep circles it hasn't been recorded. He is a whole of a guard but has no use for the hoops. There is Rush Freeman yet to "go wild" in a game. Coach Wright sent out the S. O. S. at the beginning of the year but Patton has answered the call and at present is second in the league scoring.

Patton is one of the best floor men seen this year and Coach Wright remarked several times ago that he had another Patton then G. M. A. would be in the running. G. M. A. at least will not cry over the loss of King. Tech High has yet to find a Richardson but she has a smooth-running team and one that when well oiled and polished will give the others a bit of trouble. Tech High lost to University by a point but the team's play was a bit erratic. The passing of the Tech High five was not as good as in the game with the Tech freshmen several weeks ago.

Coach Boon at Marist is playing the game of basketball that gets away in the long run. He is continually making the team pass until well under the baskets. Practically every man on the Marist team can shoot and shoot well.

NOTES ON BASEBALL

BY M. D. GLEASON.

O. Bishop, popular manager and athletic instructor at the federal prison, announces that the ball team that beats the federal prison this year will have to play big league ball every minute for at least a week. Some new players during the last few weeks who played professional ball before they came south.

One of these men, Harris, is an infielder from a northwestern team, and another, Morgan, played with the Baltimore Orioles. He is a catcher, just what the prison team needed most, as Moore has left.

F. F. Havighorst is the man who is going to manage the Almond Park, the fast team that is going to represent Almond Park this year. Fred is an old athletic instructor at the federal prison. He is a catcher, just what the prison team needed most, as Moore has left.

"Lefty" Willis, ruled ineligible last year, is back at Oglethorpe and will have as a side partner, Charlie Peace. Both of these boys made splendid records last year. Willis pitched 8 games for Carterville, winning 6 and losing 2. He also pitched 5 games for East Point and won them all. "Lefty" Peace played great ball for Douglasville and won most of the games he pitched. He did much to keep Douglasville on the baseball map.

The splendid success of the Carterville baseball team, both from the financial and winning standpoint, was so good last year that Mr. Lee, the secretary-treasurer, authorized the statement that Carterville is going to have the best team in north Georgia this year.

The people of eastern Alabama are wondering just what it takes to make a big league pitcher. They will tell you that if there is any hurler in the big show that can pitch better than "Mutt" Wilson, who pitched 10 games for Columbus and hit all 10, they would like to look at him. Two of the games he won were against the strong Piedmont, Ala., team and won the championship of the state.

"Mutt" is a big fellow, six feet, six inches, weighs 150 pounds and has everything a pitcher needs to win ball games. He has a pretty fair average so far. They have been beaten three times, twice by the Albany "Y" and once by the Washok club. They have defeated Tech, Camp Benning, Macon "Y" and several others.

Tech and Mercer met Saturday night. Mercer by that time will have played the Atlanta Athletic club, from which team he was released.

Here Comes the Bride

A Glance at the Wonderful Trousseau of Girl Who Will Soon Be "Sister" of the Golden Circle.

BY BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.
If all the world loves a lover, is it not more than true that every woman's heart thrills at the thought of a bride and her trousseau?

It was given the opportunity of seeing one who will soon be a "sister of the golden circle," as O. Henry has so charmingly called brides, and I stepped my soul in the beauties of her wedding raiment.

This lovely bride sat amid the exquisite trousseau while all about her hung wonderful gowns, filmy negligees, lingerie made by her fairy-like fingers, and hats—all of them small and marvellously becoming. Patchwork boudoir pillows and scarfs, yea, even unto linens which are in readiness to start housekeeping in the apartment made ready and inviting when the southern honeymoon is over, were piled in orderly heaps about her, and here let me state that modern brides have returned to the ways of our grandmothers and to be absolutely up-to-date, include the: linens in the trousseau just as much as a matter of course as they do the tulle veil and wedding gown.

Wonderful Gowns.
To begin with the gowns, first I love a crepe slip-over morning gown of blended colors in tan, green, black and red, in Chinese figures which is entirely without trimming.

Next, my heart went out to a vivid green crepe de chine, the skirt fashioned with full shirred panels, and having around the neckline and extremely short sleeves, three rows of ochre colored real lace. "What do you love it too if you had Tithian hair as this bride has—or even if you didn't? A green metal hat, edged with vivid green and darker green ribbons in soft loop effect, offset this companion to this lovely frock.

A geranium colored chiffon velvet evening gown, modeled on the Moven Age, lines and richly embroidered in crystals left me speechless with admiration.

An orchid chiffon veiling orchid satin showing the bateau neck line, and minus sleeves, introduced fascinating French flowers in front, and I will leave it to my women readers (for, of course, no man will ever read this screed) if there is anything lovelier than an orchid dress with a silver girdle—is it not yet to be created?

A gown of flesh colored chiffon over satin of the same shade was girdled in lavender, rose, and flesh ribbon intertwined so as to make a most entrancing ceinture.

Dinner Gown.
It's a far cry back to the days of our grandmothers, fair readers, isn't it, when a bride's best dress, next to the wedding gown itself, was of dove grey silk, and known far and wide as "the second day's dress?" Nowadays, there are as many gowns as father can possibly be persuaded to buy and almost as many as there are the moods they suit. For instance, there was a lovely dress of blue and white crepe pattern, and each flower outlined in gold threads? A girdle of gold velvet ribbon finishes it. This is to wear for dinners, when she goes out with her distinguished husband in all her dignity of the "Golden Circle" to refer to O. Henry again.

For sports wear she has chosen a French blue flannel, fashioned with adorable straight lines making one look as slim as a pencil and incidentally making all of one's less trim features tend to reducing exercises to the nearest zero. The sport frock is combined with white wool, and to go with it is an exquisite little white hat with rolled brim and trimmed with iridescent shells.

To the well-dressed woman, no wardrobe is complete without the velvet gown, and a skirt of black chiffon velvet was topped with a brown blouse embroidered in black flowers? With this effective costume she will don a smart brown satin hat, having for its sole ornament a rhinestone arrow.

Midnight blue mirrored crepe was chosen for more practical wear, and was attractively girdled with bright green duvetyne, embroidered in gold, this same being repeated in the sleeve decorations.

Behold the Palm Beach gown, all filmy lace and net, embroidery and everything. On a background of fine creamy net, was built fillet lace and exquisite embroidery, while a soft blue velvet ribbon girdle lent enchantment to the perfect mole. The hat of leg-horn straw was trimmed with blue beads, pink forget-me-nots, roses, with a single purple pansy nestling on the left side. I forgot to tell you that this pretty gown commanded a slip of canary colored crepe de chine.

Waffle Iron Check.
Of course you are interested in the going-away suit, which was of waffle-iron check English homespun in the shade of bamboo. The box coat and straight skirt were skillfully executed and the blouse was of Paisley crepe, combining harmonizing colors. The hat was of a deeper shade of bamboo straw, trimmed with three shades of brown satin ribbon less than an inch wide, edged with green and silver, and so arranged that the trimming almost completely hid the crown.

Another stylish suit was of oyster-colored English twill, with boxed coat collared in Raccoon fur and straight skirt. An evening wrap of heavenly blue tulle, shot with yellow lights, had for its lining yellow chiffon and velvet, lined with rose crepe and colored with Kolinsky.

Alluring Negligees.
Alluring negligees reflecting colour de rose in every one of them, next caught my longing eyes! A taffetas breakfast coat showing pink and yellow tints, was literally covered in trailing vines medallions of lace, centered with tiny French flowers and hung on a perfumed hanger. A flesh-colored silk Japanese kimono was heavily embroidered in green and blue in deep pink shades, with little blue birds scattered among the blossoms, and, would you believe it, there were tiny slippers to match this kimono.

I can't tell you about the wedding gown, for, as everybody knows, it would bring and luck to any bride to exhibit the "rock of frocks" before the wedding day, but you will see it, and will agree with me that it must be perfectly beautiful to correspond with all the rest of the treasures I have described!

A cartoon illustration of a man in a dark suit and tie, sitting in a large, patterned armchair. He is holding an open book and looking at it with a slightly exasperated or determined expression. A large speech bubble originates from him, containing the text: "GONE TO SLEEP. GUESS I MAY 'SWELL FINISH THE BOOK AND GET IT OFF MY CHEST! SOME BOOK!". The man has short, dark hair and glasses. The background is minimal, with some lines suggesting a room. The cartoon is signed "B7A1664" in the bottom left corner.

KUBLER IS PRESIDENT FOREIGN TRADE CLUB

Russian and South American Conditions Described by Speakers at Meeting.

George A. Kubler, Atlanta agent of the American Express company, was elected president of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club at its January meeting and annual banquet Tuesday night at the chamber of commerce. Other officers elected are: Vice president, T. R. Gress, secretary to the state attorney general; treasurer, Andrew P. Stewart, clerk of the Fulton county tax office; secretary, Miss Ethel Holbrook, foreign exchange teller of the Lowry Bank and Trust Company of Georgia. The retiring officers are: President, Harry O. Mitchell; vice president, Dr. O. Lee Chestnut; treasurer, John M. Horn; secretary, T. R. Gress. W. E. Hiers, in charge of the information department of the city post office, and Lieutenant Lester H. Heath, cotton oil engineer, spoke music was furnished by Vaughn's Virginia orchestra, through the courtesy of the Colonial tea room.

Stamps Outweigh Letter. Mr. Hiers, who is an expert on postal laws and rulings, outlined at length the steps necessary in mailing packages to foreign countries. Among the illustrations presented by him was the receipt of a letter by a local firm from Russia, the weight of the stamps, which were in rubles, being greater than the letter itself. Lieutenant Heath, who recently returned after two years in Argentina, predicted a rapid revival of trade between that country and the United States. "Argentina now possesses one-fifth of the world's gold supply," Lieutenant

Heath declared, "and not only has the money but the desire to purchase our commodities. America should not miss an opportunity to solicit this rich trade before Europeans are again strongly entrenched in South America."

Quotes Constitution. Lieutenant Heath called special attention to the Constitution's report of Tuesday morning that expressed strong confidence in the revival of trade with the South American countries.

President Mitchell, in reviewing the work of his administration, urged the club to make every effort to bring the 1924 convention of the National Foreign Trade congress to Atlanta, stating that this body would do much toward awakening the dormant but strong potential interest in world trade that unquestionably exists among the manufacturers and producers of the southern states. Mr. Mitchell called attention to the educational group sessions that the foreign trade club will inaugurate beginning next week. "A study group on Spanish will begin sessions on Wednesday of next week at 7:30 p. m., meeting in the directors' room of the chamber of commerce," he stated. Announcement concerning the first session of the current economics group will be made later.

Fair and Colder Weather Again Booked for City

High Wind From Cold Area
Makes Air Seem Colder Than It Is.

A great mass of air was piled up over the region of the United States west and north of Atlanta Tuesday, and as a result, a stiff northwest wind was bringing a period of fair and cold weather to Atlanta that is expected in weather circles to last for two days longer at least. The high pressure area west of Atlanta, comparatively far away, was being gradually shifted to make up for the low pressure area centering over New England. As a result of this shifting motion of the air, morning counter clockwise, the wind which affected Atlanta came from a north-westerly direction, gaining a speed of nearly 40 miles an hour in the afternoon.

Most of the downtown corners of Atlanta furnished visible evidence of the immense rush of air that was taking place, and occasionally a running fish with a pedestrian in pursuit furnished mirth for the more careful or more lucky ones who had a moment in which to hold their own.

Tuesday night, with the wind still coming out of the comparatively cold regions to the northwest, Atlantans shivered in a temperature which was surprisingly high, but which seemed very cold due to the wind. A temperature slightly below freezing was predicted by C. F. von Herrmann, for Atlanta Wednesday morning, but two days of fine, clear weather.

Over the entire country the weather remains unusually fine for January, and in Atlanta this month has averaged about five degrees above normal. In fact, Atlanta has had milder weather thus far in January than came in November, and the low temperature mark of 29 degrees, which came during November, has not been equaled since 1923 came in.

While the forecast was for fair and cold weather, Mr. von Herrmann declared Tuesday that there was no really severe winter weather in sight yet.

Plans to extend Broad street, from Mitchell street to street covering a distance of four blocks, were presented Tuesday to Mayor Sims by a committee of property owners headed by Marvin L. Thibault, prominent real estate man and Casper Johnson.

According to plans, the cost of extension would aggregate $300,000, of which the city's share would approximate about one-third, or $100,000. The extension would necessitate cutting through the Bass Dry Goods company building, which fronts on Mitchell street, and continue on to Whitehall.

Mayor Sims assured the committee of his interest and approval of the plans, but declared he could not promise immediate financial assistance from the city, owing to the present financial stringency. He promised, however, to request the chief of construction to designate an engineer to make a survey of the project.

Reindeer Is Sold Here, Stefansson Announces, Recalling Prediction

Two years ago Vilhjalmur Stefansson predicted to the Atlanta Kiwanis club that within five years reindeer would be on sale in Atlanta. Tuesday the Kiwanis club again, the noted explorer announced that reindeer meat is now obtainable at Kampen's, on Peachtree street. He predicted that within 25 years reindeer will be as popular as mutton, and in 50 years as popular as beef. He pictured the frozen north as the world's future storehouse.

Mr. Stefansson's brief talk to the Kiwanians concluded one of the most elaborate programs ever arranged by a civic club in Atlanta.

Amidst the four prizes presented were Misses Irene Williams, Lillian Palmer and Philene Falco and Judson House and Stuart Ross, stars of the "Hosiery King" opera company; Miss Blanche King and Charles Winger, stars of "As You Were."

Prison Farm Chaplain. Milledgeville, Ga., January 16.—(Special.)—Rev. E. C. Atkins, of Savannah, who is a member of the South Georgia conference, has arrived in Milledgeville to begin his work as chaplain at the state prison farm here. He already has won the love and friendship of many of the inmates at the institution and it is believed that his stay there will help the prisoners.

Annual Red Cross Meeting Is Called. The Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross will hold its annual meeting at the office of Robert S. Parker, in the Healy building, Tuesday afternoon, February 13, at 4 o'clock. An invitation is extended to all members. The meeting will be for the purpose of electing officers for the year.

Suspect Not Identified. E. J. Bankston, arrested Monday, and charged with suspicion in connection with the robbery of the Thomas F. Stokes coal office on Decatur street, has not been identified as one of the robbers, the police say. Stokes has filed so far, it is said, to implicate Bankston, who is scheduled for trial before the recorder on a disorderly conduct charge.

Dough Has None. John Dough, negro, regardless of the fact that his name suggests something other than poverty, will be sent to the almshouse. He appeared before the recorder Tuesday, explained he was physically handicapped and unable to work. He had been arrested on a vagrancy charge.

COTTON IMPROVEMENT SAYS ANIM OF EXCHANGE

Bachman Tells of Work.
Smythe Elected President.
Old Directors Returned.

"The Atlanta Commercial exchange will do all in its power to extend the campaign staged by the State College of Agriculture, Georgia Bankers' association and Country Bankers' association, in an effort to improve the staple of north Georgia cotton, by inducing farmers to use better seed," James R. Bachman stated in an address before the exchange at the annual stockholders' meeting held Tuesday.

All members pledged their support in the move to restore to north Georgia the former one and one-half inch staple cotton, for which north Georgia is famous for the world over. The exchange provides a supply of pedigreed cotton seed of varieties selected by the United States and State College of Agriculture to farmers through local banks at a cost price. Many banks and farmers have taken advantage of this source of seed supply, it was stated at the meeting.

The exchange was reported to be in excellent financial condition and officers were very optimistic concerning the prospects for the ensuing year.

Officers for 1923 were elected and are as follows: Robert A. Smythe, president; W. M. Metcalf, first vice president; Samuel Martin, second vice president; L. B. Neill, third vice president; W. A. Gilreath, treasurer; J. O. Tignor, secretary and superintendent.

Directors re-elected were J. R. Ellis, George B. Speir, M. R. Redwine, P. R. Lamar, C. L. C. Thomas, B. M. Jordan, Samuel Martin, J. L. Tugger, L. G. Neill, George W. McCarty, J. R. Bachman, Robert A. Smith, T. H. Brooks, W. A. Gilreath, W. J. Carswell, J. G. Williamson.

BROAD EXTENSION
PLAN APPROVED
BY MAYOR SIMS

Plans to extend Broad street, from Mitchell street to street covering a distance of four blocks, were presented Tuesday to Mayor Sims by a committee of property owners headed by Marvin L. Thibault, prominent real estate man and Casper Johnson.

According to plans, the cost of extension would aggregate $300,000, of which the city's share would approximate about one-third, or $100,000. The extension would necessitate cutting through the Bass Dry Goods company building, which fronts on Mitchell street, and continue on to Whitehall.

ELK MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN REPORT AT LUNCH TODAY

The main dining room at the Elks' home on East Ellis street will be the scene of an enthusiastic gathering at 12:30 today when the twenty-five membership campaign committee of the local Elks lodge, together with all Elks interested in the campaign, will be assembled for a luncheon at which final plans for the campaign will be discussed and reports submitted on progress already made.

The campaign is being pushed forward rapidly, and all members of the Atlanta lodge are enthusiastic in their determination to gain 2,500 new members by the time of the approaching grand lodge convention to be held here next July.

Remember the lovely Nazarene, whose teachings lighten up the dark corners of the earth.
